MOE won't help Stanhope council pay for study

Ontario's Ministry of the Environment has once more rejected a plea from Stanhope council asking for a water quality impact study of Halls Lake, saying it is not the ministry's function or responsibility.

But in a letter addressed to council, the Minister, Jim Bradley, said that while his ministry cannot help directly, he hoped council would find some use for an assessment of Halls Lake completed by the Ministry of the Environment and the Ministry of Natural Resources during water quality surveys on lake trout lakes in Haliburton County.

"This assessment provides an overview of the sensitivity of Halls Lake to additional shoreline development," wrote Bradley. "It does not address the specific water quality implications or other environmental effects of the seasonal trailer park development proposed, because this ministry has not received any detailed information pertaining to this proposal."

The survey was done in 1983 to check the overall water quality of the lake, the available lake trout habitat and the sensitivity of the lake to additional nutrient loading. Similar studies were done on the lakes throughout Haliburton and Muskoka.

If council still feels the need to have an independent survey of the lake, Bradley advised them to set up a study team composed of representatives of all concerned parties to manage an independent consultant hired for the study. The developer would pay for the costs but the study would be conducted by the team, not the individuals concerned.

Council's greatest fear is that independent studies will be biased in favour of whichever group hired the team. Cottagers are objecting to a proposed trailer park development on Halls Lake, fearing the lake cannot withstand any more use while the developers feel it is their right to build the park on the lake.

Council had previously asked the ministry to conduct an independent survey to help them decide whether to allow the development, but the ministry rejected the request. The letter read at Wednesday's meeting

More social help sought

Needs cannot be met from Peterborough, forum told

By MARTHA PERKINS
Staff Reporter

The needs of the people in Haliburton County justify the extension of many social services, people who attended last Thursday's public forum on family violence agreed.

Until a few years ago, the county only had 'provisional' status and the people were treated "like second-class citizens", according to Stanhope councillor Ann Barker, who is also on the Haliburton Family Violence Steering Committee. Haliburton's needs largely were ignored and even today, people must travel to Lindsay for many services such as legal aid, counselling from the John Howard Society or court appearances.

"We're not going to get these services until we work as a group," said Barker. "You people are the ones who have to do the screaming."

Guest speakers at the forum agreed with Barker. Sgt. Bill Bailey of the Minden OPP detachment pointed out that an officer's valuable time is wasted when he has to go to Lindsay to testify at a trial or to put someone in jail. Right now, there is no place for a woman to go besides Peterborough if she decides to make a break from a battering husband. If she requires legal help, but cannot afford it, she must travel to Lindsay to get Legal Aid. When men are arrested and ordered into group therapy sessions, there are none available in Haliburton and a

John Howard Society branch is just now opening up in Lindsay. Counselling services are available in the county, but demand is outgrowing supply and a full-time counsellor is required to handle the needs of violent families.

These examples illustrate that people in the county must work together until these services are provided, whether that involves opening your house as a safe home, stuffing envelopes, or telling a friend that there is help available, the meeting was told.

The Family Violence Safety Network has been established through the Peterborough YMCA crisis shelter to help smooth the path. The needs of rural women have not been

Minden may stop sewage payment

Minden council should stop paying money it may not owe and put it into a special fund to force the provincial government to take a close look at the Minden sewage system problem, a group of Minden ratepayers was told on Tuesday night.

"Is it fair that a burden that is caused by the government is shared by the province and the municipality?" asked lawyer Claude Thomson who has been hired by Minden council to represent the municipality in its sewage dispute.

It is because of government mistakes and costs overruns that the sewer users of Minden find themselves paying triple the amount they expected to pay when the sewers were first put in, said Thomson.

In the mid-seventies, the government came to the municipality with a plan to install a new sewer system through the town at the cost of $2-million. They assumed the user fee would be $106 a year per household but because of mistakes made over the years, that fee has increased to more than $300.

The first mistake was the $2-million estimate because the project eventually cost $4-million to complete. The government had hired consultants to forecast the population of Minden in 10 years and the size of the system was based on those numbers.

The consultants said the number of Minden residents would double by 1986, something that has not happened. Using this projected figure, the government built a larger system than was needed.

In 1979, the responsibility of running the system was passed over to the municipality and while it does not directly have to pay for the $2-million cost overrun, it is paying a percentage of it and its debt is getting bigger every year.

The municipality presently owes the government $300,000. Thomson argued that since the municipality had nothing to do with the extra costs, it is under no obligation to keep paying for them.

But Thomson admitted that not paying the government might get the municipality into trouble, so he suggested that money withheld be put into a separate bank account in case the government rules against the municipality's position.

The municipality would have the money available when, and if, it is needed.

One other option council has is to try to negotiate with the government Thomson said, but councillors are "not likely to attract an attentive ear." Another option is to bring the matter to Cabinet but that is not likely to bring results either, Thomson cautioned.

His advice was "to stand firm and say we don't think we should pay and therefore we are not going to pay anymore than what we expected the plan to cost in the first place."

"I think it's important that you negotiate from some position of strength," he added.

Some people at the meeting expressed concern that the government might start withholding other monies if the council refused to pay their bill, but Thomson assured them this would be politically unwise.

Another concern was council's apparent inaction on cost overruns when they were happening.

At the time the system was under construction, council had no part in the planning, said Thomson and could in no way be held responsible for what happened.

Thomson's comments appeared to get a favourable response from the 35 people in the audience.

Residents protest races, council seeks a solution

Anson, Hindon and Minden councillors have promised quick action to resolve a dispute between residents of Minden's North Water Street and the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association.

A residents' delegation presented a 58-signature petition to council last Tuesday, asking that no all-terrain cycle races take place this summer on a track built by the HCSA in Minden's community park. The track is close to homes on North Water Street, and residents are unhappy about noise, dust and erosion problems.

To emphasize their point about noise pollution, the delegation brought an audio tape recorded during a 1984 race.

Concern about problems created by the races was expressed by area residents to the previous council, who had vowed that a new location for the track would have to be found if races were to be held this summer.

HCSA president Ross Lindsay said his organization is looking for a new site for the races, but none has yet been found. Council asked Lindsay to advise them of possible locations so they can be evaluated as soon as possible.

St. Peter's bridge to be fixed

Stanhope council has decided to go ahead with the first phase of repairs to St. Peter's bridge at a cost of $35,000.

The bridge was built in 1934 and there are now fears it will not be able to withstand heavy traffic much longer. This winter a hydro pole was propped up in the middle of the bridge for extra support.

Council hired the firm of Totten, Sims and Hubicki to carry out a survey and cost analysis of required repairs.

At Wednesday's regular meeting, council adopted a two-phase plan with a total cost of $180,000, the first part of which will take place this year at a cost of $35,000. Council then has a few years to fund and implement phase two. The repairs will extend the life of the bridge for 15 to 20 years. If a new bridge were to be built in 1986, the cost would be $500,000.

The most expensive part of the first phase is the $14,000 estimated cost of jacking up the bridge at the pier and abutments. The other

Skaters dazzle wrapt audience

By MARTHA PERKINS
Staff Reporter

With beautiful costumes and a wonderful back-drop to set the mood, the Haliburton Figure Skating Club put on a show on Sunday that was bound to chase the winter blues away from everybody's heart.

Number after number, the girls and boys came out with smiles on their faces ready to dazzle the audience with the skills they had learned throughout the season under the watchful eye of pro Gay Tennant. Sure there were a few spills, which were handled with a grace and maturity that demonstrated the skaters' dedicated attitude, but on the whole the skaters seemed to glide effortlessly across the ice.

The show was called Calendar Capers, and as the name suggests, it highlighted some of the events that mark our calendars. Opening the show were twelve skaters dressed up to represent the months of the year with costumes that recognized in the past, but after many calls from women outside the urban areas were received, a co-ordinator was hired to facilitate the extension of services outside the Peterborough borders.

Having to travel to Lindsay or Peterborough to find counselling or refuge is adding another burden onto the battered woman's already stressful life, says Sara Fernald, the co-ordinator hired by the Peterborough YMCA. If a woman decides to seek shelter at Crossroads, she said, "it is going to cause more problems than it solves."

What is needed is a safe home network and counselling service right in Haliburton so the women, and men, know there is someone locally to whom they can turn.

Last week, a woman phone KinArk in Haliburton for assistance. Since KinArk staff are not fully trained in dealing specifically with family violence at the crisis level, they referred the woman to the toll free number of the shelter in Peterborough. To Fernald's knowledge, the woman never phoned.

"A woman needs to be able to put a face to the help," said Fernald, and many feel uncomfortable talking to someone from outside the area.

When Fernald asked the audience how many people present knew of someone who was being abused, either physically or emotionally, approximately 10 people raised their hands, demonstrating the need for more services here.

Until these services are established in Haliburton County, Fernald advised people to "express to the person that you're concerned. See her as a responsible adult who can make her own decisions. Just let her know you're there."

In the meantime, a person can donate their time to help women all over the county. Volunteers are needed to distribute pamphlets, drive these women to places where services are available, offer their house as a safe home and spread the word that it is time to break the silence about family violence.

Any one interested in helping or needing more information should phone Fernald, free of charge, at 1-800-461-7656.

Because local input is so important, the guest speakers invited for the evening were all from the area.

First to speak was Murray Fearrey, who opened saying he was "a bit of a redneck" where some social services are concerned and believes "society has gone too much to the left", giving too many handouts and not teaching people to help themselves.

"I am actually pleasantly surprised" about the efforts to end family violence, he said, and added, "we should have done this earlier."

Haliburton County has a high percentage of alcoholism and unemployment, he said, two things that are bound to add up to family violence. But even though many professionals know about it, it's not something that is widely discussed.

When later asked if there was any emergency funding available for women, Fearrey says there was money through the general welfare program.

He was also quick to join the others in saying more services and organizations were needed in Haliburton. Later he wanted to know about a recent case in which a woman was locked in the basement for three days, and why the man's name hadn't been released to the papers. Constable Gary Chapman, the public relations officer of the Minden OPP detachment, said the consensus was it would do more harm to the family members to let it be known that the father/husband was an abuser.

Dr. Dean Stokes reiterated Fearrey's feelings that many people in the county hesitate to talk about spousal abuse, since he has had women come into his office whom he suspects have been battered and yet they say nothing.

"We as a group know there's a lot of family violence going on," he said. "The problem is getting the people who are being abused to admit there's a problem."

It will take him a couple of visits to inquire if a woman is being abused, he said, since it is very difficult to come outright to ask, "Is your husband beating you?"

"Often they don't want to talk," he says, and it is easier to deal with in the emergency situation where a woman has been brought to the hospital because the severity of the abuse has necessitated the call for help.

Getting the woman to admit there is a problem is one thing, he said, but getting the family to admit it is quite another.

An audience member asked Dr. Stokes if there was any way to test abusers for mental disorders which may cause violence. Much work is done just to help the man find out why he is responding in such a manner and to convince him this is not normal behaviour, Dr. Stokes replied. Fernald added that it is unusual for a man to have a mental disorder but that in the past, "it was socially sanctioned that men can do what they want to in their own homes."

If family violence in the home is affecting the children, as it almost certainly does, the Children's Aid Society steps in, said the next speaker, Gena Robertson. As a social worker for the CAS, she has had to deal with the emotional backlash of family violence as it concerns children and "we're probably only hitting the tip of the iceberg."

A young girl who sees violence at home, is more likely to accept violence in her own home when she is an adult, while young boys exposed to violence may grow up to use violence as a way of venting their anger and frustrations, she said.

Even in the short term, the effects of family violence are noticeable, she said. The child will feel responsible, thinking that if only he or she was a better child, then Mommy wouldn't get hit by Daddy. This leads to frustration, hurt and a feeling of helplessness. The child might also try to physically get between his or her parents in an argument, increasing the chances the child will get hurt as well.

Last week, she had a 10-year-old boy in her office, crying desperately that he wanted to go home even though he saw his father regularly beat his mother. He wanted his mother to leave his father and he felt hopeless in trying to resolve the problem.

"Parents don't think violence is affecting the children," says Robertson even though everything points to the conclusion that it does.

Another misconception is that the CAS is going to autocritically remove any child from a violent home, which is not the case. The

Snowmobiler hits truck, breaks leg

A West Hill, Ontario man suffered a severely broken leg Friday when he was thrown from his snowmobile into the front of a pick-up truck.

Bradley Neil, 25, was travelling on a cottage road in Minden Township when the accident occurred, at about 4:20 p.m. Neil and a companion, Randall Cotter, 22, also of West Hill, were approaching the crest of a hill when they braked suddenly to avoid an oncoming pick-up truck driven by Andy Degroot, 22, of RR1, Unionville. The snowmobiles slid sideways. Neil was thrown into the front of the truck, fracturing his leg. Cotter's machine struck Neil's snowmobile and the truck, but he was not injured.

Neil was taken by ambulance to Haliburton Hospital, and later transferred to Centenary Hospital in Scarborough.

Damage to the truck was estimated at $800. The snowmobiles received minimal damage.

Machine hits log

In another snowmobile mishap last Friday, a Brantford, Ontario man, Erol Burton, age 40, was uninjured when his machine struck a snow-covered log on Hawk Lake in Stanhope Township at about 11 p.m.

Burton was thrown into the air by the impact, but was not hurt. The snowmobile rolled over, sustaining an estimated $2000 damage.

Car crash

Two Minden area residents sustained minor injuries on Sunday in a single vehicle accident on County Road 2 in Lutterworth Township.

John Codlin, age 63, was the driver of a 1985 Mercury which entered a steep ditch and struck a tree at about 3:45 p.m. Codlin and a passenger, Muriel Codlin, 64, were slightly hurt. Damage to the car was estimated at $5000.

Bridge to be repaired costs are as follows: Modification of expansion joints, $6,000; replacement of four bridge bearings, $2,000; concrete in bearing seat reconstruction, $1,500; dowels into concrete (28 each at $50 a unit), $1,400; miscellaneous approach works, $1,100; and removal of deteriorated concrete from pier and south abutment bearing seats and cleaning bearing seats, $1,000. The report also allows $4,000 for contingencies and $4,000 for engineering and resident supervision.

The cost for contingencies and engineering supervision rises to $16,500 each in the second phase of further strengthening the bridge.

Council has not yet hired a firm to do the required work.

Correction

A story in last week's Echo concerning Dysart council's decision to move municipal accounts from the Bank of Montreal to the Bank of Commerce, wrongly said different lendings rates were offered by the banks. In fact, each would loan funds to the municipality at prime rate. The Bank of Commerce offered Dysart a half of one per cent more interest than the Bank of Montreal on surplus funds on deposit, and slightly lower service charges.

Well done

It's all over for another year. The racing beds have been put away, the broomball teams have disbanded, and the logging show sawdust is buried beneath a fall of new snow. Nothing remains of the 1986 Haliburton winter carnival but the memories, and perhaps for a few participants, the sore muscles.

This year's carnival wasn't quite perfect, but it showed definite signs of improvement, not only because the weather was better than in some recent years, but because Rotary Club members brought renewed enthusiasm to their organizing tasks. The revival of the bed races was a gamble that paid off. The crowds who lined Highland Street to watch the antics had a good time, and went away with a smile on their faces. The broomball game also attracted a large and enthusiastic audience. Other events familiar from previous carnivals were successful again this year.

There were some disappointments, of course. The snocross race on which many hours of work were expended could not be run because competitors from the snowmobile racing circuit did not turn up in sufficient numbers, choosing instead to attend a larger event in Quebec. None of the tagged rainbow trout released into Head Lake was caught, partly because only a small number of anglers tried their luck. And the snow sculpture contest which was to have taken place on Saturday morning at Head Lake Park had to be cancelled because only one competitor expressed an interest.

But these setbacks were more than balanced by the community spirit manifested in the carnival. There was a good deal of harmless fun, and that's never more needed than in the final weeks of winter.

Inevitably there will be criticism of the carnival. Some people have observed that not enough activities took place on the lake. Some have said that there were long lulls in the carnival spirit, and that visitors to the community might not have known there was a carnival at all.

It's easy to criticize, of course, but a great deal harder to pitch in and make the carnival better. As proof, one need only recall that a public meeting was held last October to ask the community for ideas about how to improve the carnival. Only one non-Rotarian showed up. So much for the public's commitment to making the carnival better.

Points of view

The local response to an Echo readers' criticism of a proposed bluegrass music festival planned for next summer, provides yet more proof -- if more is needed -- that Haliburton residents and business people care deeply about their community. The letters reproduced here and on the next page indicate broad support for the local Legion's efforts to organize the festival. And they also show that no one with a long term interest in the community favours a 'bring people in at all cost' approach to tourism. Instead, local people recognize and acknowledge that noise, rowdiness, litter and all the associated problems that can accompany entertainment attractions and events are incompatible with the kind of community in which most people want to live. Yet the people who took the time to respond to last week's letter are certain that the bluegrass festival will not create unwanted problems. They argue convincingly that there is a place in Haliburton's summer for a family-oriented music festival in Glebe Park.

The final resolution of the arguments for and against the festival will be provided by the bluegrass fans themselves. If the event is a success in the community's view, it is likely to be held again. If the 'nay' sayers are proved correct, a lesson will have been learned.

In the meantime, planning will proceed, with the blessing of most of the community.

Legion president defends festival

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

As president of Branch 129 of the Royal Canadian Legion I feel I must respond to the letter published in your paper on February 12 with regard to the proposed Legion-sponsored Bluegrass Festival.

First let me stress that this is not a rock festival, it is Bluegrass. Bluegrass, or folk music, attracts all ages, but most particularly an older, family clientele.

Legion involvement with the young people of Haliburton County has been a lengthy and honourable one. Branch 129 has contributed generously with facilities, manpower and financial assistance to: figure skating, minor hockey, cubs and scouts, bursaries and scholarships, camps for children with special needs, Christmas baskets to needy families, public speaking and of course, our wholly Legion-sponsored Cadets. I can state unequivocally that the Royal Canadian Legion has not, nor will not, knowingly encourage, sponsor, endorse or promote any undertaking detrimental to the health or welfare of the youth of our county or country.

Our commitment to the proposed senior citizens' apartment project attests to our continuing interest in our mature citizens, and their welfare.

I acknowledge Mr. Doherty's right to express his opinion, but his statement, "Perhaps the Chamber should spend some money to familiarize the people of Haliburton County with the needs and wants of today's tourists and to make them aware of the importance of their role as residents of a tourist area," is the most blatantly pompous, presumptuous piece of garbage I have ever read! Even plantation slaves were allowed some time for their own entertainment, albeit, after they had been taught what their roles were!

Yes, Mr. Doherty, there is life in Haliburton after the tourists! Some of our residents (and, I suspect, even some of our tourists) enjoy folk music and are looking forward to something more stimulating on their holidays, than watching the lake ripple!

As for the implication that the Royal Canadian Legion is a "quick-buck" promoter, sir, your assessment shows abysmal ignorance and is beneath contempt or comment.

A Bluegrass Festival of the magnitude we are proposing can be an important and rewarding boost to both the community and tourist industry of Haliburton. It has not been undertaken frivolously nor lightly. I trust that my remarks will allay any fears and encourage everyone to support and promote Haliburton's own Bluegrass Festival. As for you, Mr. Doherty, I respectfully suggest that, instead of wasting your time writing silly, biased, uninformed letters, you volunteer your help for August 8, 9, 10 and find out what on earth you are talking about!

Yours sincerely,
Joan Irish, President

Idea supported

To the Editor:

We are writing to voice our support of the Royal Canadian Legion in the staging of a Bluegrass Festival in Haliburton.

Bluegrass is a very lively and enjoyable music form appealing to a wide cross-section of the general public. Traditionally it has been enjoyed by people of all ages, and is very much a family affair. What long term harm can be done by a three-day musical celebration? (No one advocates another "Woodstock"). We feel the Bluegrass genre to be quite suiting to our landscape. A celebration of high summer, taking full advantage of sunny days and warm evenings can only be looked upon as appropriate by most people. We feel the impact of this event on the area can only be positive.

Tourism begins to taper off after the first week of August in our region. Staging the festival in mid-August will give local businesses a boost. It will help lengthen our season, and even one more high volume week means a lot. We all will benefit, because, "like it or not," we are a tourist area.

Although some people visit our area for the solitude, and beauty of nature, not all of us wish to be deep woods recluses for a full two-week vacation. As the hosts and hostesses here, it is up to our community to provide some entertainment as well. Most people do entertain when they have visitors.

To stage an entertainment event takes a lot of hard work and initiative. We think the Legion members deserve a great deal of credit and support from the rest of this community. We believe this festival will make a lot of new friends for Haliburton, and hopefully these people will return again and visit the Highlands in all seasons. We are glad to see Haliburton

Feir Play

by Creighton Feir

I think that we can be safe in saying that the 1986 version of the Haliburton Winter Carnival was by far one of the best in the winter carnival's history. Not only did we get a break this year from the weatherman but weather conditions were ideal. From our point of view the biggest and most successful highlight had to be the bed race sponsored by the Rotary Club. Hundreds of people turned up on the main street to take in the action and the excitement of this special event and they were not disappointed. Everyone seemed to really enjoy it, from the kids to the grown-ups. Most of the events on the programme seemed to be well patronized with the exception of the ice sculpture contest and the snowmobile races in Wallings fields. It's hard to understand why so little interest in the snow sculpture contest and we had anticipated two or three entries from the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School. As for the snowmobile races it was the story of just not enough entries. The track conditions were perfect for the race at Wallings fields but without the snowmobiles you can't have a race. It would appear to me that the races should be moved back to Head Lake. The Rotary Club of Haliburton and all those who helped in any way are to be congratulated on coming up with a terrific carnival this year and we sincerely hope that everyone had a good time. Some new events were inserted into the programme this year and they all went off well. Next year, who knows; possibly some other new attractions can be brought in to make the carnival even better. To top off next year's winter carnival I would like to see some of the old activities brought back into play, such as the torchlight parade, the giant bonfire and the ever popular afternoon parade.

Here are just a few local notes... Steinberg's open air market on Highlands Street in Haliburton has been torn down to make room for a new building...Dr. and Mrs. Blair Pierce of London, Ontario were in Haliburton to renew old acquaintances...Final rehearsals are being held for the Highlands Little Theatre play 'Once Upon a Mattress' which will be held at Haliburton High School on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, February 27, 28 and March 1....Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Vance English who celebrated their 36th wedding anniversary on Monday, February 11....Mr. and Mrs. Mike Scheffee of Oshawa were visitors here over the past weekend....Mr. and Mrs. Pat Kennedy of Haliburton have returned home following a vacation in Venezuela....The two Bantam house league teams were in Wilberforce on Saturday to take part in a minor hockey tournament. Eight teams participated in the one-day event.

The final race in the Sir Sam's Ski Challenge will be held this coming Sunday, February 23. Over 100 skiers entered the S.S.S.C. and over 60 have qualified for the final. A total of 36 cash prizes will be awarded totalling $3,600 with a grand prize of $1,000. The race will get underway at 2 p.m. and the awards will be presented at 4:00 p.m. Come on out and cheer your favourite on to victory.

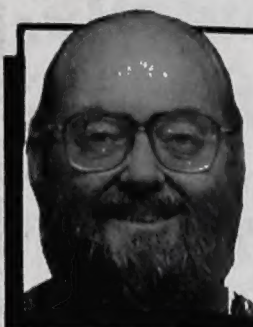

During the latter part of December and during the month of January and up to the present time the Molou Theatre in Haliburton has been closed due to problems beyond their control. The Molou is wired with an alarm system and when the furnace goes out this system rings into a nearby apartment on Highland Street. During a three-day cold spell this winter when on three successive nights the temperature went down well below the zero mark, the furnace went out and apparently the alarm system refused to work and you can guess the rest. It meant big trouble. Mary Lou's Snack Bar which is located next door and hooked onto the same water supply all of a sudden ran out of water. At the same time a passerby noticed water running under the front door of the theatre onto the street. A plumber was called in only to find that all the pipes in the building had been frozen leaving the building in quite a mess. The owner Lou Consky told me on Sunday that everything is back in operation and the theatre will re-open on Friday and Saturday, March 7 and 8 with an hilarious comedy "Spies Like Us". He went on to say that they will be following this feature with a great line-up of all the new movies. Here are just a few of them. Jewel of the Nile, Iron Eagle, Rocky IV, Wildcats, Young Blood (a hockey movie) and many more exciting new releases. Oh yes, we almost forgot to mention that on opening night, Friday, March 7th for the movie Spies Like Us all seats will be $2.50/. The same policy will be in effect, that is only one showing only on Friday and Saturday nights.

Friends of Dr. Harry Good were delighted on Monday to see him back in the community following a two-week stay in a Kingston hospital where he had heart surgery. I understand that he came up town to have his hair cut and paid a visit to the Good Medical Centre.

The hottest musical group in town at the present time is a local group "The Ugly Rumour". When they made an appearance at the Beaconbrook at Haliburton on a recent Saturday night they played before the biggest crowd in the Beaconbrook's history. On Saturday night it was another sellout crowd at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall when they played for the carnival dance. The band is in great demand and as I said before, they are the hottest group in town.

POINTS OF VIEW

Trying to tell a book by its cover

The view from here

Harvey M. Clarke

There is an old saying that you can't tell a book by its cover. I would guess that when I lived in the city, many people who came to my office to deal with a vice-president in his suit and tie, probably never knew that inside the suit was a guy who would much rather have been wearing jeans up in the woods in Haliburton County.

Everybody has their little secrets, I guess. One of the people I knew from innumerable committee meetings was a man named John Crosbie. This one was in Toronto, not Ottawa, and if memory serves, at that time represented the Reader's Digest people.

These were meetings where various parts of the advertising profession met to develop and operate 'self regulation' so that the government wouldn't get in the habit of legislating activities in the field. I represented "radio" at these meetings for some years, and John was there as the liaison with "magazines".

He seemed to me to be a nice enough fellow, if a little more serious than some of us, and I would never have guessed his vocation if he hadn't been written up in the Toronto Star early this year. It sure was a surprise to me, and I must say I wish I'd known sooner so we could have discussed our shared interest.

For John Crosbie is the Chairman of the International Save The Pun Foundation. They claim to have members "from Alaska to Zimbabwe" and have their own newsmagazine, "The Pundit". The reason for the writeup in the Star was that they had announced the ten best (?) puns of 1985.

My favourite from all the examples printed was the story of the cannibal in Africa who was out hunting for food, and was suddenly confronted by a boa constrictor. He succeeded in killing it, and proudly took it back to his wife.

"It's too bad you didn't bring back a pigmy as well," she commented. "Then we could have had a snake and pigmy pie."

If I had known in the days of those long, boring meetings that he was interested in such foolishness, then I would have done what storytellers often do, and given him a story in exchange.

For years I've been telling people an African hunting story about Tarzan and Jane. It was Tarzan who was out hunting this time, and he wasn't having much luck.

After being out half the day, the most he had been able to do was to bop a little tiny bird on the head and stick it in his sack. And it was nearly dark before he finally managed to sneak up on a chimpanzee, and kill it.

Naturally, after such a long, hard day he was quite pleased when he threw his catch down in front of Jane by the cooking fire.

So he was more than a little upset when she looked up at him and said, "Oh, Tarzan, not finch and chimps again tonight!"

People either groan at puns because they appreciate them, or because they don't. If you are of the latter persuasion, my apologies, and I promise never to do a whole column on the subject again (even if the editor would let me!).

For those of you who were brought up on puns, as I was, or have acquired the taste, I make this offer: if you're interested in joining the Foundation and getting copies of The Pundit, send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope, care of the Echo, and when I get information on the membership I'll pass it along to you.

Oh, for the nice greens of spring

Northern Lights

Virginia Muenzel

It's happened again. My brain is fogging up. The winter doldrums are setting in, and the stupid weatherman has just predicted some more of that miserable freezing rain. It's only just the last couple of days that I could walk to and from the barn without having to drag along the ash can. And my car insists on going up the driveway sideways, until I give up and call Ed to give me a hand. Every time I have to tell Mom we're having freezing rain, she cringes. (That's how she broke her leg.)

She's definitely feeling caged up. A bed stay, weighted down with an ankle to hip cast is a very small space. It's too bad we can't put skis on her wheelchair and take her for a sleigh ride. On the other hand, she thinks we live in the frozen north, and wouldn't be surprised if an igloo should spring up out in the snowy fields.

On top of all this, some very inconsiderate snowmobiler has decided that our backyard is his trail. He goes whizzing by, not twenty feet from my front door, crossing over my garden where black currant and raspberry bushes lie just beneath the snow. I expect he'll be back next weekend. Won't he be surprised when his ski-doo digs into a new deposit of flickens just lightly dusted with snow. It's guys like that who make folks like us hate those machines.

See, now, it's made me mean. I am dreadfully in need of a long walk in the bush. I yearn to see some green. A fiddlehead, some leeks, a violet. If I can just hold out another month, it will be maple syrup time. I may not see the right colour, but I'll certainly get my fill of hiking through knee deep snow in the bush, carrying five gallon buckets of sloshing sap.

I can hardly wait.

Carnival a finger-clicking good time

Sunny
Side Up

Martha Perkins

I swear I must have taken a picture of everyone living in Haliburton during Winter Carnival weekend. Sometimes it felt that my camera and I were joined at the finger, and on Saturday, let me tell you, that was a pretty cold finger.

When I went back to the office on Sunday, after taking pictures of almost everything under the sun, I counted up the number of films lining the dark room wall. There were thirteen and each had approximately 20 shots on it (we roll our own). That means my index finger and the shutter button connected at least 260 times in less than 48 hours. I wonder if this wins me a spot in the Guinness Book of World Records?

Whenever I go to an interview or to cover an event, I always let it be immediately known that I am not a photographer; I just take pictures. People come up to me and ask about depth of field, shutter speed, camera brands, and filters, expecting me to be able to clearly explain the techniques I use. Techniques, schmtechniques. I just aim, focus and push the button. As long as I don't cut off someone's head, I feel I did okay.

It's like the time I went through when I told people I had bought a car. They'd ask, "How many cylinders?" "Is it front or rear wheel drive?" "What's the mileage?" All I knew was that it was brown and had five speeds. At the time I thought that was all I needed to know.

Back to Winter Carnival weekend and photography. Sometimes even I feel the need to do something different and so during the log sawing competition I decided to get down on my haunches and take a bird's eye shot of the chain sawing competition. The audience started laughing before I even knew what was happening. Everything had been fine until the competition started sawing upwards and the sawdust flew directly into my line of fire and I was soon being covered in the powdery stuff.

Now my rule is that even if you know you're making a fool of yourself, don't let other people know that you know. She who laughs first at herself looks less stupid. So after I was covered in sawdust, I stood up, shook myself off, and acted as if I had expected it to happen but considered nothing was too much to bear for a good picture. Were those people fooled?

The week before, I had let myself get talked into going into a squash court to take pictures of a squash match. Ever since last summer when I got hit in the eye with a line drive to second base, I have had this fear of things flying in my eye and causing me great embarrassment as my already chipmunk cheeks swelled to even greater proportions. I was terrified.

The problem was I had my attention focused on the two players and had no real idea what was happening to that little black ball. All I could hear was it striking the wall beside me as I was begging them not to hit me. If those guys had been mad at me over something I had written, I wouldn't be sitting here today.

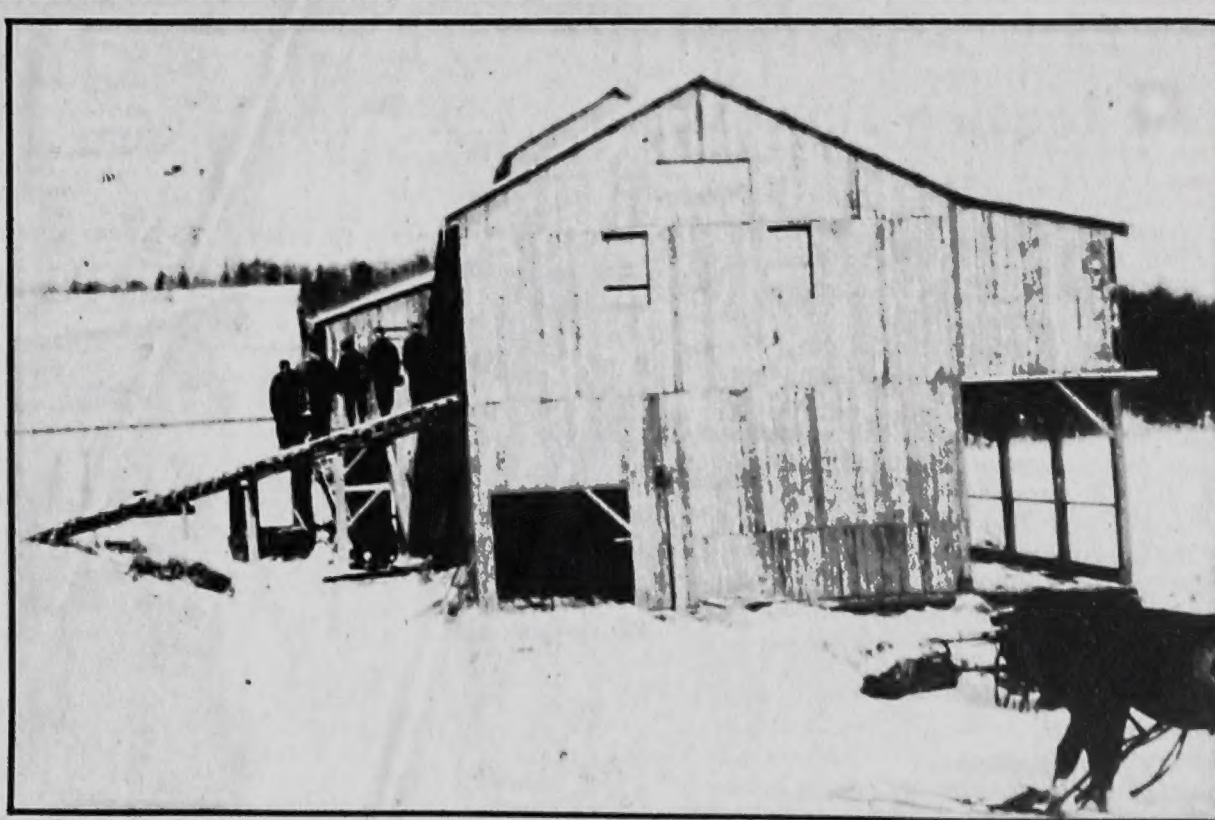

Now all you aspiring journalists know the fear and humiliation that comes along with the job. Thank goodness I'm not a Barbara Frum or the like who has to make a fool of herself in front of millions of Canadians. Fame does have its price.

But even with the cold fingers and the sawdust shower, I must tell carnival organizers that I had a really good time at the carnival. I was amazed at the amount of work that went into putting the whole show together and the enthusiasm with which it was greeted by those people who got involved in the goings-on. The emphasis was on fun and that's what people seemed to be having a lot of.

This is the first winter carnival I've ever been remotely involved in. I never had much school spirit and Lindsay's attempts never quite came off. I was quite content with passing the winter just cursing the snow and wishing it was all a bad dream.

So here I was taking pictures of public skating and catching myself wishing that I had a pair of

Tired ears

To the Editor:

I am a little bit tired of hearing the self-appointed guardians of the morals of Haliburton spread malicious rumors and gossip about one of our service organizations and one of the town's hotels. I refer, of course, to the Royal Canadian Legion and the Beaconbrook Hotel.

Since my wife and I retired and moved to the Haliburton area, we have found the Legion and the Beaconbrook to be two of our favourite places to visit when we are in town, and it disturbs me to hear stories of drunkenness, fighting and foul language that are supposedly commonplace, being spread by people who have seldom, if ever, been to either establishment, and who have no intention of ever going there.

It is nice to have a place like the Legion where you can have a quick drink with friends or attend a dance or other social function, or to go to the Beaconbrook (where we often stay overnight) and enjoy the entertainment and the company of the younger crowd. Admittedly the music is loud, and the crowd sometimes boisterous, however we have yet to see any of the under-age drinking or rowdiness that we heard we could expect there. Without a place like "The Beac" for young people to gather for entertainment, who knows what kind of "fun" they might find on the streets of Haliburton.

I have just read the letters to the editor (February 12) regarding the Bluegrass Festival which is being organized by the Legion, and I see that our armchair experts are at it again. I have no doubt that they have never been to a Bluegrass Festival, yet they feel free to assassinate the character of people, like my wife and myself, who do attend and enjoy them. One reader does not want Haliburton put on the map as a place where people can have fun. With that kind of narrow-minded, Victorian thinking, perhaps he would like the town renamed "Dullsville".

People who wish to lead a quiet, reserved lifestyle should feel free to do so by staying away from places or events that are not to their liking. I suppose it is a sad symptom of that lifestyle that they feel threatened by those of us who enjoy having a good time.

Yours truly,
Ed Pickard,
Redstone Lake

County map

To the Editor:

This is in response to Mr. Harvey M. Clarke's article dated February 5, 1986 on 'Really Putting Haliburton on the Map'. What he wants to put on the map is just that, Haliburton and area, not Haliburton County as a whole. What about the rest of us who are in business too? In the Wilberforce area there are over 60 businesses, and some of these have been in business as long, or longer than most in Haliburton and Minden areas.

If the Chamber wants to Put Haliburton on the Map, then include all of Haliburton County.

Yours truly,

Don Outram,

Bluegrass benefits

To the Editor:

RE: Roy Doherty letter February 12.

In my opinion he is writing about something he knows nothing about. He does not know the difference between a rock festival and a bluegrass festival, and I don't think they ever had bluegrass festivals at Wasaga. Then again you can't compare Wasaga Beach to Haliburton. Does he not realize the merchants in Haliburton and maybe Minden would benefit by selling their wares to the people coming to Haliburton? And as far as I know bluegrass music is not for rowdies, if it is policed properly. The Royal Canadian Legion is an organization mostly made up of people who served their country in time of war and would not do anything intentionally to hurt the community. If Mr. Doherty cares to come to the festival I personally will see he gets the best seats available. Then he will be able to talk about something he knows something about. Who knows, he may like it but then again from his letter I doubt he would. I guess all he likes is to criticize people who are trying to do something different. Did the Grand Ole Opry hurt Nashville? No, it made the place famous. Thousands of people go, which helps the businesses and put Nashville on the map. I know, I have been to the Opry, and as for T. Kenneth Kolp's letter, Haliburton could have a far worse identity than holding a bluegrass festival that will be properly run. If not, we owe the community an apology.

Interesting articles

To the Editor:

I just had to write and let you know how much I enjoy Martha Perkins' Sunny Side Up. Her interesting little column makes you feel you know her. I know how she feels when she was told Lindsay wasn't far from Haliburton but when winter comes Lindsay is in the banana belt. I enjoyed her pictures on the Minden dog races and her article on Pattie - the female electrician was great. She has some very interesting articles on local people in our area and some day I would love to meet her. Keep up the good work, Martha.

CHACE challenge

To the Editor:

Little did we realize when CHACE Place entered your snow sculpture contest that our participation would have such a devastating effect on the competition. We profoundly regret that we were deprived of the opportunity to win the contest; yea, even to go upon the field to do sculpting. Next year, we hope that there will be some braver souls who will be willing to take second place. Hey Haliburton, let's make it a contest! A hundred dollars will still buy a lot of peanuts, napkin rings or hot water bottles.

Yours sincerely,

Monmouth ladies spiel was a rousing success

The 2nd annual St. Valentine's Ladies Bonspiel was a rousing success last weekend at the Monmouth Curling Club in Wilberforce. By far the most popular spiel of the season, this fun-filled event, sponsored by Molson's Breweries, Carrington Distillers and Brights Wines, attracted rinks from Minden, Combermere, Toronto and Bancroft.

When the laughter died down, prizes were awarded to the second place finishers in each event, Judy Hogan and her quartet of Florence Nightingales from Bancroft and Betty Luckasavitch and her bevy of beauties from Combermere. Top spot in the late event, won in a shootout with Judy Hogan, was Debbie Nicholson who skipped the team of torrid Torontonians, with vice Clara Adie, second Glenna Scarlett and lead, Karen Marshall. Winner of the early event, with an unblemished record of three wins and no losses, was Berta's Birdies, skipped by Roberta Walsh with vice Sharon Stoughton, second Liz Bradbury and the combo lead of Cathy and Rhonda Walsh.

Winner of the draw to the button contest was won with a superb effort by skip Gwen Cox of the Minden River Rats.

Following a dinner prepared by Chef Roger Hogan, the ladies voiced their appreciation to their valets for the two-day spiel, Dave Nicholson, Mike Oram, Ed Scarlett, Roland Adie, Al Tremblett, Mark Smith, Kerry Barbour, Ken Craig and Don Fevreau.

Brits win at darts

It took two rookies to put the Haliburton dart throwing team up on the scoreboard on Sunday during the 4th annual International Dart Tournament at the Legion.

With a telephone hook-up to their competitors in the Red Lion put at Deadman's Cross in Bedford England, the Haliburton team of Les Smith, Jack and Chris Briggs, Pat Wilson, Bernard Bain, Jack Morrison and Reg Crockett, found themselves losing the first four rounds of the tournament.

That's until newcomers Chris Briggs and Les Smith had their chance to toss their darts and finally got Haliburton out of the red. It was the first time either had played on the team and Smith ended up beating the captain of the English team.

Each player was matched up with a player across the ocean and the two competed against each for a round point. The final score was five to two in favour of the Brits.

The Rotary Club and Volunteer Firemen kept their audience in stitches Friday night as they tackled each other in a broomball game at the arena. The firemen won the game, but just wait 'til next year.

Firemen outsmart Rotary broomers, savour victory

By MARTHA PERKINS
Staff Reporter

The broomball game between the Rotary Club and the volunteer firemen on Friday night at the arena, wasn't exactly on the up and up for more than one reason.

First of all, most of the players spent much of their time falling down as they scurried across the rink, fighting to get control of the ball. Secondly, some of the broomball action simply would not have been condoned if it had been anywhere else but the Dysart Community Centre on the opening night of Winter Carnival.

The final knock 'em down score was three to two in favour of the firemen, who were trying to prove their mettle after being jokingly referred to as "the under '40s" all last week by the Rotary members.

The first period of the game saw no numbers up on the scoreboard but with 1.41 remaining in the second period, John Robinson hit the ball through the net with a penalty shot. Not to be outdone, and known for adding a touch of drama, the firemen evened the score with one second left on the board with another penalty shot executed with skill and finesse (even though he was slow on his feet) by deputy chief Buck Baker.

If Rotary members conduct their business the way they play broomball, then the village of Haliburton is in big trouble. Big Bad Brian Black (or B.B. Bullet to his friends) seemed to spend more time in the penalty box as he watched his team mates slither across the rink in various fashions. Referees Walt McKechnie and Gary Brohman turned a blind eye on many of the carryings-on but were honourably quick in catching such misdeeds as "dancing" penalties when two of the players were locked in combat.

Let's hope the firemen can get to a fire faster than they could get to the ball on Friday night. For men known for their courage and daring, they sure did seem timid sometimes. As a plus however, they spent less time in the penalty box than the Rotary members.

The game's fate was sealed in the third period, when, with 3.34 on the scoreboard, fireman Tom Curry outsmarted the Rotary players and scored the deciding goal.

Huskies say goodbye to Beaverton, advance to Ontario quarter finals

The Beachli-Walker Bantam Huskies eliminated Beaverton three games in a row to advance to the All Ontario quarter finals.

The first game of the series on February 7 saw the Bantams defeat Beaverton 6 to 1. It was a rough-house affair with 13 of 20 penalties classed as roughing.

Scoring for Haliburton were Erin Nicholls with two goals and two assists, Ted Paish with two goals and two assists, Jaro Cooper with a goal and two assists, Ron Perrin with three assists, Darren Byers with two assists and Jeff Warburton with a goal. Winning goaltender was Gavin McKnight.

On Sunday, February 9 the Huskies hosted Beaverton and defeated them handily, 12 to 1. Again Beaverton attempted to out-muscle the local boys but the Huskies were not to be intimidated and beat the visitors where it counts - on the scoreboard. Goal scorers for Haliburton were:

Erin Nicholls with four goals and four assists, Alan Rydman with two goals, Jaro Cooper with two goals and two assists, Drew Mitchell with two goals, Ted Paish with two goals and three assists. Jeff Warburton, Scott Russell, Jeff Francis, Scott Nesbitt and Ron Perrin also picked up assists. Gavin McKnight was the winning goaltender.

On Friday, February 14 the Huskies played game number three before a supportive crowd of carnival goers. Facing elimination, the Beaverton team came out skating and checking. There were no goals scored in the first period as it was a goaltenders dual with both Rob Harris for Beaverton and Gavin McKnight for Haliburton playing exceptionally well.

Beaverton scored the first goal of the game at 13:11 to make it 1 - 0. It appeared that this goal sparked the Huskies as Scott Russell came back and scored three goals in 29 seconds to put the Huskies in the driver's seat. Scott Russell's goals were assisted by Rydman and Perrin, Rydman and then Rydman from Nicholls.

Beaverton was not ready to roll over yet though as they scored two goals in a row to tie it at 3 to 3 with 6:59 remaining in the game.

Erin Nicholls put the Bantams ahead at 6:19, assisted by Jaro Cooper. Again Beaverton came back to tie it at 4 - 4 with just 1:33 left in the game. Over-time was on everyone's mind until Erin Nicholls notched the winner with only 11 seconds left on the clock, assisted by Jaro Cooper. Gavin McKnight Please turn to Page 8

Visiting rink wins PineStone bonspiel

The PineStone Curling Bonspiel over the weekend was judged 'a great success' by organizers. Curlers came from Minden, Elliott Lake, Sudbury, Whitby, Brampton, Toronto and Port Perry.

Good curling and lots of fun were had with new curlers participating.

Three draws and three games were held on Friday night and Saturday. The spiel wrapped up with a dinner and dance Saturday evening.

Steve Colliver, now of Elliott Lake, won top score with 54½ points. His team was Sandra Oakley, vice, Kirk Harrison, second and lead Monique Colliver. Steve's name goes on this trophy for the fourth time - quite an achievement in curling.

Second three-game winner was Toley Vozniak's team from Whitby with 49½ points. Third three-game winner was Bob MacNaull's team of Anne MacNaull, Scott Arbuthnot and Maria MacNaull from Haliburton with 49½ points.

The top two-game winner was Bob Colliver with Jean Colliver of Haliburton, Herb Roodenburg and Wendy Gough from Minden.

Murray Lee's team from Port Perry took second place with Ken Wilson's team of Dorothy Wilson, Murray and Marilyn Kuno coming third.

Ed Pickard, with his team from Redstone Lake, won one-game high.

Bassets lead bowling series

Joan Scott bowled a 658 triple for the Bassetts Wednesday afternoon, taking five points from the Beagles and a one-point lead in the third series with 12 points.

The Schnouzers took four points from the Terriers and are second with 11 points. The Beagles are third with 10 points. St.

Bernards have seven and the Poodles, six.

The Terriers have 17 points and a total of 83 overall. High games for the day were bowled by: Ev Stata, 214, 215 - 605 triple; Joan Scott, 236, 232 - 658 triple; Harry Henderson, 210, 209, 217 - 636 triple; Mima Burwood, 237, 206 - 603 triple.

Carnival '86 a success

Mother Nature must have decided that since the people of Haliburton had already put so much work into making this year's carnival a success, she too would oblige and give the carnival revellers bright and clear skies throughout their whole weekend.

Her consideration was greatly appreciated by the hundreds of people who hit the streets, the ski hills, the Victoria Street hill, the arena, the fairgrounds, the playing fields and the sleigh trails. Blearly thoughts of winter were left behind as people came out to enjoy the many activities going on throughout the community.

All tastes were catered to on the weekend from those who wanted good family fun to the others who just wanted to forget winter and dance the night away. It was a time when everyone worked together to help people realize the fun that was to be had in a Haliburton Highlands winter. And though there were a few disappointments, the carnival turned out to be quite a success.

Carnival Queen

A winter carnival provides people with a welcome diversion from the long, cold winter months and lifts people's spirits as they participate in the antics of outdoor fun. That was the message given to the Rotary Club last Thursday as they picked out this year's Carnival Queen.

Tracey Harrison, an 18-year-old student from Haliburton, won the honours this year and was given the queen's crown which she wore with a smile all weekend. She, as well as Princesses Helga Meyers, 17 of Lutterworth Pines, and Kim Elias, 19 of Minden, had to give a speech to the club members about why a winter carnival was so important to small communities as well as fill them in about their educational aspirations.

The three Haliburton Highlands Secondary School students were crowned at the well-attended teen dance held Friday night at the arena. The dance was organized by both the Rotary Club and the students council and featured the music of deejay Ed Whiteway. Approximately 200 to 250 teenagers came out for the evening, and the money from ticket sales will be split between Rotary and the students council.

In addition to the honour, Harrison was presented with $100 from Rotary, while the two princesses received $50 each. As well, each girl was presented with a charm donated by Varty Jewellery, a portrait by Dal Hubbert donated by Rotary, and flowers.

Chili dinner

Thanks to 360 people filling their stomachs with a hot chili dinner on Friday night, two local girls will be sent to a summer camp.

The Haliburton C.G.I.T. group was kept very busy Friday night as endless streams of people poured into the upstairs of the arena to sample a dinner of chili, salad, rolls, beverages and cookies. An annual fund-raising event for the Christian group, the money raised is partly used to send two children from the area to Camp Crossroads, a Christian youth camp near Haliburton. The cost per child is approximately $125.

Another part of the dinner earnings goes towards supporting other charitable foundations such as Sleeping Children Around the World while the remaining funds stay in the group to help pay for some of their events.

Pancake breakfast

Delores Blair and Mary McKee probably don't want to see another pancake for quite some time. On Saturday morning, they flipped more than 400 of the breakfast treats and fried more than 600 sausages as the line-up continued throughout the morning at the Trapper's Pancake Breakfast.

Though the attendance was down a bit from last year, the food was just as filling and there was no need to go back for seconds. If you were one of the earlybirds who arrived when the doors to the Legion opened at 7:30, the steaming pots of coffee were also a heart-warming sight. Two hundred and thirty people left that morning with contented bellies and smiling faces.

Rotary member Cliff Dawson, who organized the event, enlisted the help of his daughter Kathryn, son Arthur, Dale Walker, Curry Bishop, Bob Morrow, Allan Bagg and Jack Fleming who single-handedly washed all the dishes for yet another year.

Snocross cancelled

Due to a shortage of entries, this year's Sno cross had to be cancelled at the last minute. Registration opened at nine but by 1 p.m. there were only six official entries and a few people skates since it all looked like such fun. Weak ankles seemed a lame excuse and I was willing to brave public embarrassment when I fell down. I felt even more cowardly when I watched the figure skating carnival. They could do things on two small blades that I couldn't even do with my feet planted firmly on the floor and leaning against a kitchen shelf. I know, I tried.

Maybe to the people of Haliburton, the carnival is just something that has always been around. But take it from the city-slicker from Lindsay, it's something you should all be proud of and strive to make even better.

Haliburton Lumber wins league

The 30-game Haliburton men's hockey league season came to an end last Wednesday as Haliburton Lumber tied Curry Motors 5-5, leaving them first and second in the standings.

Haliburton Lumber finished on top, with a record of 10 wins, three losses and two ties. Curry Motors was second with six wins, seven losses and two ties, after battling all season with Emmerson Lumber, who ended up just one point behind with six wins, eight losses and one tie. Fourth place team was Bishop and Wilson with five wins, nine losses and one tie.

Joe Roberts finished on top of the scoring race. Roberts scored 35 goals and 28 assists for Emmerson Lumber, 19 points more than second place scorer Rick Wood of Haliburton Lumber, who notched 18 goals and 26 assists.

Dean Curry of Emmerson Lumber was third in the season scoring race, accounting for 18 goals and 17 assists.

A best two out of three semi-final series began on Monday night with a surprising upset. Haliburton Lumber should have had an easy time against fourth place Bishop and Wilson, but the surveyors showed they intend to make it a battle.

Paced by Roger Bain and Jim Winn who turned on their skating and stick handling powers to notch three goals apiece, Bishop and Wilson earned a 9-5 win and put Haliburton Lumber's back to the wall.

The surveyors kept Haliburton Lumber off the board in the first period while Jim Burk and Gary Burton accounted for singles.

In the second period Haliburton Lumber came back to tie the score at two in the first three minutes.

Bishop and Wilson moved back into the lead with 4:07 left in the second frame, however, as Bob Woodcock tallied, and they remained in front from then on.

Just under seven minutes into the final period, Roger Bain got the first of his three goals to put Bishop and Wilson ahead by two goals.

Steve Cooper answered for Haliburton Lumber at the eight-minute mark but they still trailed by one goal, and the gap soon widened. Jim Winn drove in two goals less than three minutes apart to make it 6-3 in the surveyor's favour.

With two minutes left on the clock, Roger Bain went in alone and scored, increasing the surveyors lead to 7-3.

Steve Cooper and Tom Curry responded with goals for the lumbermen less than a minute apart, but time ran out on the league leaders' hopes. At the nine-second mark, Jim Winn completed a hat trick for the surveyors, and with just one second remaining, Roger Bain also drove in his third goal of the night to cap a 9-5 upset.

In the other series, Curry Motors and Emmerson Lumber will meet in a best of three that gets underway Wednesday night.

was the winning goaltender.

Exciting hockey is the order of the day from here on as the competition gets stronger. The fan support received by the Huskies was tremendous and will continue to grow.

Haliburton now awaits either Wasaga Beach, Angus or Stroud, depending on which team wins in their division.

Watch for dates of future Huskie games in this paper and on local billboards around town.

Long hours of hard work pay off for skating club sparkled and shone under the bright lights of the arena.

Then came five tiny January snowflakes followed by Susie Snowflake (Sarah James) who did the first solo number of the show. The boys got to show some of their stuff, when Jeremy Scheffee and Greg and Glen Sharp made the audience forget they were at the arena and took them down the ski slopes in their skating routine called "Skiers".

With February came the eight "Sweethearts on Parade" featuring Jamie Ogle who put some of the warmth of romance back into this cold month. Danielle LaRue, as the Valentine Sweetheart, impressed everyone with her presence on the rink and her skating skills.

March is to the Irish what February is the romantics, and to celebrate St. Patrick's Day, nine Irish Colleens and Leprechauns took to the ice, featuring the skating of Shannon Stinson. The pride of her parents, as well as the Irish, was Jennifer Smith who performed the third solo.

April Showers brought six skaters dressed in bright costumes and rain gear and they almost made everyone look forward to the spring rains. The Easter Bunnies and Jelly Beans were adorable and though they sometimes seemed to walk more than they skated, their antics on ice delighted everyone. The older girls followed dressed in beautiful costumes and Easter bonnets. Melanie Duchene was featured in the Easter Bonnet routine while Ruth James was the featured Easter Bunny.

As everyone can attest, along with May comes Spring Fever as we begin to shake off our memories of a long winter. Skater Noelle LaRue expressed everyone's happiness over brighter days with her excellently skated solo piece. She was followed by six equally bright May Flowers.

As emcee Rev. John James said he knows from personal experience, June is another month for romance as brides and grooms tie the knot under the bright sunshine. Cheryl Smith and Jeremy Scheffee as the skating bride and groom stole everyone's hearts if not each others with their duo routine. For the younger generation, June is graduation month and Tracey Popple was the solo skater in her dance about the joys of reaching that landmark.

The figure skating club made a wise decision in choosing Stephanie Hood of Orono as the guest skater. Only 18 years old, she quickly showed the Haliburton audience why she was chosen as the Eastern Ontario Junior Ladies Sectional champion. Part athletics, part style and grace, Hood's two performances combined beauty and skill to perfection.

After the intermission came a Canada Day celebration as nine skaters took to the ice in honour of the patriation of our constitution. Beside the one-day holidays, everyone knows that summer is one of the best times to take a vacation. At the beginning of their routine about summer vacations, Tanya Easton and Karen Elstone delighted the audience when Karen pulled Tanya forward between her legs and they both stayed on their skates.

Canadians are well-known for taking advantage of every ray of sunshine, and as the routine Fun in the Sun suggested, there are plenty of ways to do it. The ten skaters threw beachballs, jumped rope and basically frolicked in the sun, making everyone remember there are sunny days ahead. Tammy Fair did a solo as a Tennis Player and then the Sharp brothers, Glen and Greg, and Jeremy Scheffee showed everyone they were adept hikers as well as skiers.

Autumn leaves are supposed to fall, but such was not the case with the LaRue sisters as they expertly skated their way through their routine about September.

Once again the costumes and the youngest skaters stole the show when they came out on the rink in the Trick or Treat routine. The costumes were beautifully done and the expression on the children's faces reflected the fun they were having all dressed up. But along with ghosts in the 1980's came Ghost Busters, and Tracey Popple and Kendra Curry escorted the younger skaters off stage before they performed their duo routine.

Jack Frost came to visit in November in the shape of Jeremy Scheffee who despite his young age, was confident and skillful as he expertly skated his way through his routine. And of course, once the frost arrives, the skaters are bound to follow and 14 of the skaters took to the ice in a Skating Party.

Everyone was on their best behaviour anticipating Santa's visit and Tanya Easton was no exception as she performed a solo number as Santa's Elf. Then Santa himself made an appearance as he distributed the presents -- or eight of the young skaters dressed as brightly wrapped gifts.

Ian Bailey, Devon Dart and John McMahon were the next to come on the rink dressed up as toy soldiers. Two of them quickly made it to the other end where they put down their guns and skated their routine while the third made it down to meet his mates just in time to have to pick up his gun again and head back.

All the skaters came out on the rink for the grand finale, when bouquets of roses were handed out to those people who worked especially hard to put the show together.

A new award, donated by Gay Tennant to the skater with "dedication and displaying a sportsmanlike manner to everyone", was presented to Danielle LaRue.

Everyone involved in the figure skating club and the carnival is to be commended on the fine show they put on, pleasing both the skaters who performed and the audience who watched. The show ran without a snag though there may have been some headaches behind the scenes. From the skating sequences, to the costumes, to the wonderful backdrop, the show was worthy of all the time and effort that went into it.

Students visit municipal council

By TAMMY HOWARD
Grade 4A

On Tuesday, February 11, Grade 4A went to the municipal meeting in Minden. It seemed to take a long time to get there because we walked. When we arrived we had to wait our turn. The council was in the room talking.

Then we went in and sat in pews. It was exciting and it made me feel like an adult. The secretary of the Minden library got up and had a speech about the annual budget. Then our Reeve, Sinc Nesbitt, asked who was delegated to read the letter about the ATC track. The delegate stood up and read a letter of complaints from the people who live on North Water Street. They said it was too noisy and dusty. One man even brought a tape recording of the noise pollution.

In my opinion, perhaps the delegate could have shown more manners in front of us children. After this an argument started which seemed silly to me but it was quite serious to them. After this some of the business things were voted on.

Then Dick Schell, the by-law enforcer, got up and read a report about the signs on the Bobcaygeon Road. After this the reeve said it was time for a break. It was also time for my class to leave and go back to the school. We all went up to his desk and said thank you as he gave us a pin that said Minden, Anson and Hindon.

By CHERI RIVARD
Grade 4A

When we got to the municipal council meeting we were early so we had to wait for about 10 minutes. The teacher gave us the agenda before we got there. An agenda tells you what is going to happen. While we were waiting we met Michael Shirley who is a reporter for the Times. During the meeting we sat in pews. It was hard to hear the councillors.

First the clerk-treasurer said a bit and then the Reeve, Mr. Nesbitt, said, "All in favour," and they all raised their hands. Then Mrs. Jean Lacey talked for awhile. After that Dick Schell said the Bobcaygeon Road needs five signs on it. Before we left the reeve called us up and he gave us a pin that said, Anson, Hindon, Minden, on it.

By RHYS GRAY

Today, February 11, we went to a municipal council meeting. At 10:00 a.m. Jean Lacey talked about how much this year's budget went up for the museum. They wanted insulation in the building.

At 10:15 a.m. the residents of North Water Street didn't want ATC races at Minden Park track.

Ross Lindsay said that they raised so much money from the races and that is why they wanted the races in the park. A man from North Water Street said, "Did he say his name was Jessie James or what?" Sinc Nesbitt said he would make some changes by maybe moving the track to another place.

At 11:00 a.m. they talked about transportation and communication. I didn't really understand that part.

Then Dick Schell talked about street signs. He said that he needed 17 more signs.

When the meeting had a recess, we got a pin that said Anson, Hindon and Minden. Then we left for school.

waiting to enter if others showed up.

Both the Rotary Club and Sno cross officials were very disappointed because the track was said to be one of the best in the Sno cross circuit. However, a Sno cross offering an $8,000 purse was being held in Quebec on the weekend, and organizers feel many drivers went there instead. Another event cancelled because of lack of entries was the snow sculpture contest.

Bed race results

"Revenge is a dish best served cold," is the expression the Bantam Hockey bed race team is spreading around this year after they got virtually knocked out of the final heat by the champion Rotary team.

The two teams had just come around the corner from the United Church when the Rotary bed slammed into the side of the hockey team (not on purpose, of course), knocking one of their wheels off and sending a pusher under the remaining front wheel. With nary a look over their shoulders, the Rotary team rushed on for the first place finish leaving the hockey team to pick up its pieces and straggle across the finish line.

Competition was just as fierce, but not as dangerous in the two opening heats. The first two teams to race down the crowded main street was the Health Unit and Nurses team, dressed in clinical white, and the Rotary team with the Rotarians crossing the line seconds before the Health Unit.

Thundering down Pine Street next were the teachers, Bantams and the Smith team. The Bantams used their hockey hardened muscles to their advantage and cut the ribbon before the other teams.

The entire race was one of the highpoints of the carnival, attracting anywhere from 200 to 300 to the main street, with everyone cheering on their favourite teams. Plans for Carnival '87 already have bed races at the top of the events list.

Sir Sam's Molstar

Steve Podborski might not have been there, but his skiing prowess lived on at Sir Sam's ski hill this weekend during the Molstar races.

At a race at the Blue Mountain ski resort, Haliburtonian J.D. Bishop had a chance to ski against the former Canadian champion and it was Bishop's time that everyone was trying to beat on Saturday. More than 80 contestants took to the course to try to beat his time of 27.8 seconds and while there were no winners, everyone walked off with a small prize from Molson's.

The prizes were a bit bigger the next day when Curry Motors once again held its Giant Slalom Race. This time there was no invisible skier for people to compete against, just the 69 other people who were out to win the trophy.

The fastest skier was Scott McNab of Peterborough with a time of 28.2 seconds. Two Toronto men, Chris Isberg, 28.6, and Jamie MacLeod, 29.0, took the second and third place titles.

Eastern Star sale

More people went home with homemade baked goodies from the Eastern Star sale on Saturday, than they did last year, pleasing both the people who got to munch on the taste treats and the group of women who did all the work.

The $350 that was raised at the sale, which included baked goods, bazaar items and a lunch table, will go towards the many benevolent donations the group makes each year to different charitable organizations. This year's Worthy Matron has chosen the Association for Children with Learning Disabilities as her project while the Grand Worthy Matron has chosen the Diabetes Association. The local group also presents a language scholarship to a deserving student.

Lumberjack contest

There is living proof that you are only as old as you feel in the form of Haliburton's Ken McKnight. With his 72nd birthday only a day away, this oldest competitor in the lumberjack contest walked away with second prize.

His sawing skills were outdone by Buck Cowen who gathered the most points in the five-heat competition. But in both of the hand sawing rounds, the two-man cross-cut and then the one-man cross-cut, it was McKnight who stole the show with his winning times. All the younger men had to simply stand aside.

A total of eight men competed in the five areas of log dropping accuracy, cross-cutting with a chainsaw, the two-man cross-cut, the one-man cross-cut, and chair carving. The event was sponsored by Labatt's and each man received a prize for entering.

Cowen will get his name inscribed in the G.W. Martin trophy.

Roast beef dinner

The ladies of the Legion were very pleased with the number of people who sampled their roast beef dinner on Saturday night and didn't mind the compliments they received either.

This year, when the ladies of St. Anthony's decided it would be impossible to hold their annual spaghetti supper, the Legion ladies stepped in and offered a full course roast beef dinner to the hungry revellers. By the time the meal had ended, 175 people walked out of the Legion with full and contented appetites.

Rails' End Gallery

Friends of Marg and Derry Wilford can probably expect a postcard from Martinique sometime this year since this lucky couple won the Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts draw of an all-expense paid trip for two to this West Indies island.

The draw was made Sunday as part of the special exhibition and arts and crafts sale for the Winter Carnival. "Good Evening Sports Fans" proved to be a very popular show of memorabilia from the Sports and Hockey Hall of Fame. Throughout carnival weekend, the Rails' End Gallery was kept busy with interested sports fans who came to see this exhibit especially set up for the gallery as well as browse through the display of different arts and crafts on sale.

Ugly Rumour dance

For those people who think it's fashionable to arrive late, there was nothing but bad news on Saturday night when they tried to get into the 'Ugly Rumour' dance at the Legion. Fifteen minutes before it was supposed to start, tickets were already sold out and the dance was declared a huge success.

At the dance, the draw for the weekend getaway at the Harbour Castle Hilton was held and Cleve Shaw found he was holding the winning ticket. The prize also includes two tickets to a Toronto Maple Leafs game.

Snowshoe baseball

Some people just couldn't wait until summer so they can get back to their favourite outdoor activity: playing baseball. Not since the Blue Jays almost captured the World Series title was there such baseball fervour in Haliburton when the two arch rivals, the PineStone Inn and the Beaconbrook, took each other on in a thrilling game of snowshoe baseball on Sunday.

The rules were the same, the bat and ball were the same but instead of getting muddy sliding into first base, these players had to concentrate on getting used to their size 30 feet.

The final score after five innings was 13 to 10 in favour of the PineStone.

Monmouth

Monmouth Township council met February 10 and considered a number of items of municipal business:

Council will apply for a payment from the Ministry of Transportation and Communications for snow removal in the hamlet portions of Monmouth Township as requested by them.

A severance application from Hubert Dunford, part Lot 21, Concession 10, was approved as submitted.

Council will ask the Ministry of Revenue to update assessment under Section 63 of The Assessment Act, re: 1986 assessment for 1986 taxation to be based on 1984 values.

The municipality set a fee of $200 for a normal rezoning application that does not go before the Ontario Municipal Board.

This little guy looks a bit young to be at the head of the family table, but at the CGIT chili dinner on Friday night no one seemed to mind.

Family violence is 'serious crime'

main goal is to keep the family as a single unit yet stop the violence, she said.

"When these things come to our attention we try and stop the cycle and let the child know there are other ways to behave."

And to the women who feel they are doing the best thing for their children if they stay in an abusive situation, Robertson asks them "to take a look at their child and see how the violence is affecting them."

The next speaker, Sgt. Bailey, said he was pleased to see the audience of approximately 35 people turn out to the meeting, because this is a great problem to the community and something must be done by everybody, including the police, to see it doesn't continue.

Last year there were 54 local cases of family violence serious enough to call for police intervention, Bailey said.

Luckily, none of the incidents escalated to homicide, as one case did the year before, Bailey said.

Often, a policeman might spend hours at a home, trying to resolve the problem. If there is no probable grounds for laying a charge, police leave the home, unless the woman asks them for assistance. "I often have thought of just what goes on after we leave," says Sgt. Bailey.

"This is a very serious crime," he said, adding that laws have been changed recently to reflect this belief. Wife abusers can face up to 15 years in prison, depending on the severity of the violence, and now the police can lay charges even if the woman doesn't want to.

In response to questions about what can be done to help men, Sgt. Bailey said he has just read the results of a study that concluded that when the man is sent to court, "the incidence of him continuing the beating is almost eliminated."

A question and answer period followed in which many of the inquiries revolved around what could be done to stop the men from battering and what individuals could do to help.

Do we need equity legislation?

Question

by Catherine Denholm

Here we are in the middle of equal pay legislation in Ontario. The civil service is the first step with pressure from the opposition parties to go all the way -- every work place would pay equally for equally valuable services.

The old arguments are surfacing against equity pay but without their usual vigor. The best the Toronto Star could, in their editorial wish to slow down such legislation, was to call it a "fuzzy concept". They went on to say that it was true women did receive 64% of what men earn and while that has something, they said, to do with discrimination and exploitation the real reason that women earn less is because they "choose or fall into pink-collar ghettos." Would they have used the word ghetto if the pay was fair?

Most arguments against equal pay legislation are against change or against more government interference or they carry the vague hope that if we just let everything alone, maybe things will go back to the "good old days" when women stayed home and there were jobs for everyone.

Honest good thinking people see no reason for legislation because they cannot imagine paying any employee less than that person earns. However, innumerable employers do not want the legislation because they make most of their money from underpaying wherever possible.

Women form almost half of the work force now, some by choice, some by necessity. When you see the words discrimination, exploitation and ghetto applied to their wages and salaries you know changes are needed. The old traditions and job classifications are deeply ingrained. There will be few improvements without legislation.

was the response to a second plea by council:

A copy of the report will be sent to all groups involved, who can then decide if they will fund the costs of an additional survey.

The summary of the ministries' survey states:

"Halls Lake is a relatively large deep lake with an extensive watershed. Many large upstream lakes, such as Kennisis, Big Hawk, Little Hawk, Red Pine and Nunikani, drain into Halls Lake via the Kennisis River.

"Halls Lake is a highly developed open lake with 158 cottages, 41 permanent residences and approximately 33 resort units (as of 1983).

"Halls Lake has a relatively high flushing rate of 0.76 times per year indicating that water replenishment occurs in 1.3 years. The lake's hydrological characteristics indicate that Halls Lake has a low degree of sensitivity to a change in water quality in response to a change in phosphorus supply.

"The phosphorus model for Halls Lake was extremely complex due to the effects of upstream lakes on the water quality of Halls Lake, however, the predictions for Halls Lake were very close to the actual existing conditions in the lake. The model predicted that the artificial phosphorus supply to Halls Lake from the existing development represents 25% of the total phosphorus supply. Natural Phosphorus supply from watershed drainage and precipitation contributed 75% of the predicted total supply.

"The colder bottom waters or hypolimnion comprise a large proportion of the total volume of Halls Lake. This factor and the relatively small increase in productivity (chlorophyll a) predicted with a unit increase in phosphorus supply result in an oxygen resource which is relatively insensitive to depletion with the phosphorus supply conditions used in this assessment."

fishermen who were trying to net one of the beauties.

The fish, 12 small ones worth $25 a catch and one big one fetching $500, were released last week into Head Lake and have been swimming who knows where since then. The 14 registered fishermen certainly didn't know where they were headed and by derby closing time on Sunday, none of them had been caught.

Rotary plans to hold the derby again next year but will change a few of the details.

Weekend race breaks records

Minden news

by Maizie Austin

Happy birthday to Anita Wiseman on Monday, February 24 from all your friends. We hope you have a good day, Anita.

Jason Stevens won the quilt, and Reg Raby won the beverage party basket at the Kinettes Valentine dance last Saturday. I couldn't find out for sure who won the toques.

The ice fishermen seem to be catching a few nice fish.

The races on ice broke their record with an entry of 90 cars last weekend. The London Auto Sports Club will be hosting the races on Saturday and Sunday, February 22 and 23. There will only be a few more days of races on ice so for anyone who would like to see them will have to get out the next couple of weeks.

Bernice Veitch, Shirley Gilbert, Jimmy, Christina and Darren Butterfield of Toronto spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Gilbert.

Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Gilbert had Sunday supper with Mervin and Rhonda Rivers of Haliburton.

Recipe for this week: Date Muffins - 1 cup chopped dates, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1/4 cup margarine or shortening. Pour 1 cup boiling water over this and let cool. Add 1 small cup brown sugar to one well beaten egg and add to cooled date mixture. Add 1 cup bran, 1 teaspoon baking powder and 1 cup all purpose flour. Stir to moisten. Bake in 375 degree oven for 15 to 20 minutes.

That's all for this week. Drive with care and watch for the children getting on and off the school buses. I hope to see you all next week.

There will be movies for the children at the Library/Cultural Centre on Saturday, February 22 from 2:30 to 3:30.

Happy birthday to David Ackerblade on Sunday, February 23. Have a good day, David.

I was talking to Crystal Austen of Red Deer, Alberta on the weekend and she asked me to say, Hi, to her family and friends in Ontario.

The Women's Institute will be holding their meeting on Wednesday, February 19 at the Library/Cultural Centre at 2 p.m. They will be having a movie. All ladies are welcome.

The Rotary Chicken Bingo will be held at the Minden Community Centre on Tuesday, February 25. There will be cash prizes and prizes that have to do with chickens and eggs.

Winners of the Thursday afternoon card party were the following: Sid Rowe, Betty Harper, Flo Dollo, Bill Ingram and Johann Beattie.

Definition of hard work: An accumulation of easy things you didn't do when you should have.

Happy birthday to Scottie Morrison on Tuesday, February 25. I hope you have a good day, Scottie.

Household hint: Window sashes often won't budge after a winter of disuse. Try wiping past wax along the tracks of the sash. If this doesn't help, pour liquid soap or detergent down each side. This should get the sash moving again.

If you have any news for me to include in my column please call 286-3607 before 10 a.m. on Monday so your news will appear in the Wednesday paper. Thank you.

Four-year-old Helen Harris was deep in conversation with her friend Annick Demars, 5, at the CHACE Place Valentine's Day party.

Camping weekend fun

Dorset news

by Phyllis Briscoe

I would like to extend very best wishes to Rhoda and Walt Taylor on their 57th wedding anniversary February 12. That magic 60 is not far away. Happy birthday wishes to Daisy Townsend on February 15 and Jon Derry on the 10th.

The local Girl Guide company spent their annual winter weekend at Doe Lake. A total of 14 people, including leaders, guides, brownies and two pathfinder junior leaders travelled by bus to the camp last Friday and thoroughly enjoyed fun in the snow.

Caroline Bacher and Janet MacDonald were enrolled as brownies and guides. Snowshoeing, togogganing and hikes were enjoyed by everyone. Yvette's help in the kitchen won her the "Cinderella's Helper" award, Nancy did cartwheels in the snow, earning the "most amazing feat" award. Sarah and Caroline were honoured for their special effort on the snowshoes. Stacey won the "sharp eye" award, Kyla and Stacey were rewarded for keeping their room so clean and Janet won the "Good Sport" award.

Pathfinders Jennifer Buss and Jennifer Brown were a tremendous help and Joanne Buss as "Cinderella" did a superb job in the kitchen.

A vote of thanks to the Dorset Lions for providing transportation and a warm welcome to Kelly Girard who brings her Guiding experience from Manitoba to the Dorset girls.

Best wishes for a speedy recovery go to Leon McKay who is a patient in Toronto General. Our thoughts and prayers are with him.

The Dorset Social met for their first meeting in February on February 5, enjoying a finger food luncheon. A social time followed with cards, scrabble and shuffleboard.

Few people may remember the name Mrs. Edith Roberts Bottomly, who died on November 25 and once lived in Dorset. She would have been 98 on January 28. Her father, Mr. Roberts owned and operated the Fairview Hotel which stood on the spot where Robinson's store now stands. Edith lived there until it burned down in 1909. The lady was very witty and remembered many anecdotes from the early days about the inhabitants of that time. I had a letter from her daughter and she said that her mother was alert and fairly active until just a few months before she died.

Seniors special guests at Valentine get-together

Wilberforce news

by Winnie Schofield

Monmouth Senior Citizens Club hosted a valentine get-together on Tuesday, February 11. Glamorgan Senior Citizens were guests for the occasion. Appropriate name tags of red and white hearts, prepared by Clarence and Ruth Bradley, were presented at the door. All sat down to a delightful luncheon of soup, sandwiches and tasty fruit cocktail dessert prepared by convener Ruth Bradley and her helpers.

Gerald Shackleton, president, welcomed guests. Following lunch Walter Baron of the Gooderham Club, with accompaniment on the accordion, led all in a sing song. Selections were picked at random from the Senior Citizen song book. An afternoon of enjoyment with games of choice by those wishing to participate completed the events of the day. This interesting item was submitted by Maurine Finlay.

A new 34 cent stamp issue this week heralds the Olympic Winter Games that will be held in Alberta in 1988. The stamp depicts a map of south western Alberta with the five sites of Olympic events marked with a red dot.

'Tis the time of year to consider needed improvements at home and in the community. No doubt our new, energetic council members are studying ways to benefit the township. The newly formed Businessmen's Association is taking steps to inform other regions of our thriving businesses and recreational facilities. Over in Harcourt an energetic ladies group is making a splendid effort to draw attention to their attractive community centre. There is one big drawback to these plans. It is the roller coaster condition of Highway 648, known as the loop. Three years ago the road was desperately in need of surfacing but nothing was done. Today it is a nightmare. On the highway between Wilberforce and Harcourt you will see almost as many orange bump signs as there are hydro poles. There is no way that we can induce tourists to visit until this condition has been corrected. All our accomplishments in the past of new growth and expansion are at a standstill and the spirit of vitality will die unless plans formulated years ago for a decent highway are considered an urgent priority by Monmouth Council.

Monmouth Library was busier than ever during the month of January. The number of young readers borrowing books is on the increase. A few weeks ago members of the Girl Guides and the Brownies made a presentation to the library of a copy of their 75th anniversary book "Celebration". Through the Haliburton County Library exchange program a book trade takes place this week with a variety of books for juniors and adults. Tapes or cassettes have also been exchanged so drop in to look over these. There are several books that may be purchased from your library: Nila Reynolds ever popular "In Quest of Yesterday", "Monmouth Township" book, "Me and Len" and our latest local history "Fragments of a Dream".

On Saturday, February 15 the fifth annual Gary Agnew Memorial Tournament took place at the Wilberforce arena with teams from Scarborough, Fenelon Falls, Barry's Bay, Apsley, Peterborough, Haliburton and two teams from Wilberforce. Games started at 8 a.m. and finished up at 6 p.m. Haliburton #1 won the B consolation over Peterborough by a score of 5 to 1. In the "A" championship, Scarborough won over Wilberforce with a score of 6 to 5. This was a close, well-played game. With the score tied at the end of regular time they went to a shoot-out. There was great fan support with everyone hoping that our local team would win but they will have to wait until next year and perhaps then they will be able to keep the trophy at home.

The dance in the evening was once again supported by younger people. If the parents of the kids in Minor Hockey would attend the dances it would be a great help. Money received from these dances is needed to keep the cost of running the Minor Hockey league as low as possible so that every child can have a chance to play hockey. This information is from President Bob Anderson.

Joyce and Mark Bowman are happy with the arrival of their first baby. Born in Peterborough, this handsome little fellow weighed 6

Stump Jumpers' Carnival a success

Gooderham news
by Mary Hadley

On Saturday, February 15, the annual Gooderham Stump Jumpers' Winter Carnival took place. A crisp, bright day made the activities that much more enjoyable. There were 86 participants registered in the fish derby. Charlie Billings won the prize for the largest fish, weighing in at 7:16 pounds. Smallest fish prize was won by Jason Stamp. The oldest fisherman was won by Frank Anderson and the youngest fisherman by Kelly Pettit, 2 years old. Other prizes donated by local businesses, clubs and residents were won by John Traviss, Jim Giesel, Jim Greenwood, Gary Mintz, Jeremy Traviss, Arnold Graham, Hilliard Stoughton, Gary Graham, Mrs. Jim Mitchell, Kevin Billings, Greg Hunter, Craig Pettit, Rick Riel, Frank Anderson, Bryan Taylor and Stuart Taylor. Congratulations to all.

At 1 p.m. a convoy of snowmobiles left the community centre for a trail ride and returned in time for chili supper and a Valentine dance at night. Everyone enjoyed themselves. Judy MacDuff won the Recreation Committee's 50-50 draw and the "Wrinkles" puppet draw, in aid of the Gooderham Nursery School was won by Robin McCausland.

The Recreation Committee extend a hearty thank you to all who donated prizes and pies and time to make this such a successful event.

We extend sympathy to Judy Stoughton and family on the loss of her father, Stewart Chaulk, of Toronto, who died last week. Several Gooderham friends travelled to Toronto to pay their respects.

Winners at the Gooderham Bridge Club on Tuesday, February 11, were Marjorie Montgomery, first and Ev Vanderland, second.

Guests of Walter and Pat Baron last weekend were Jeff and Julie Giesel, Ann and Grant Giesel, Jim Giesel, Diane Dennis and Erin Follett.

Welcome home to Mary Hadley on Friday, February 21 when she will return from her two-month holiday in Barrie and Milton.

Glamorgan Seniors were guests last Tuesday of the Monmouth Seniors Club for a Valentine luncheon in Wilberforce. Lunch was delicious and a sing-song afterwards led by Walter Baron on his accordion, was enjoyed by all.

On Friday evening, February 14, families of our village enjoyed a skating party at the rink beside the fire hall. There was a big bonfire and free hot dogs and hot chocolate. The children were especially appreciative to the Recreation Committee for this treat.

The Gooderham Bridge Club continues to meet every Tuesday evening at 7:30 p.m. at the school. Winners on January 28 were Marjorie Montgomery in first place and Mike Collins in second place. On February 14 Mike Collins was again second, following Fred Vanderland with the high score. All bridge players are welcome.

Friends of Mary Hadley will be pleased to hear she is well again after a bout with a "bug" in Milton. Mary expects to return home about the end of February.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Walter MacDuff, who died suddenly at home on Sunday, February 9. The funeral will be from the Pentecostal Church at 2 p.m. on Tuesday.

Ileen Hunter is getting around quite well with her cast and is feeling fine. She expects to be free in about three more weeks.

We are glad to have Bea Hillis home again after her two weeks away in Keswick. Bea and Buck are the proud new grandparents of Timothy Marritt, son of Cathy and Kevin Marritt. Congratulations to all.

It was hard to decide what goodies to buy at the Eastern Star bake sale on Saturday but few people could go home empty handed. The sale was held in Curry Motors showroom.

Sunday Schools now use videos

By MARIE WALLACE

Most youth leaders and Sunday School teachers are always looking for new ideas and events to interest their groups and enhance the Christian truths they are teaching.

Many churches are now using videos which are available for rent - they are great for family viewing, for junior/intermediate/teen groups, women's and men's groups, and Bible study groups.

I was in the Master's Bookstore in Haliburton and Kathy Stouffer took time to explain the subject matter of each video on the list and she knows her merchandise. She can give you help in selecting which video would be best suited to your specific audience, and the price is only $4 for over 30 minutes. There are videos with Sesame Street-like characters, wilderness camping experiences, stories of accidents and healings, top downhill skiers, musicals, a Christian artist's concert - many are for parents about raising children and teens, some on courtship, and many on Bible teaching and inspiration.

We are so fortunate to have this service in Haliburton County and we should be making use of it; if we don't use it, we may lose it.

Wholesome recreation is another idea for group participation. Recently the Baptist Sunday School sponsored a 'Gymerama' on a Sunday afternoon, everyone came back to the church for a pot-luck supper, following that, Ruth Gorrie showed slides on a trip she had taken to Africa. Parents can make these events very special by inviting their children's friends who may not attend a Sunday School to come along. This is an excellent way to interest them in regular Sunday School attendance.

Some churches rent the arena for family skating and this is sometimes followed by a hockey game (children vs. parents). Combine this with a pot luck supper and an inspirational video and you have a super family outing.

It's great to keep our congregational families together and when possible to invite our friends and neighbours.

Residents enjoy their annual dinner

Senior League

by EDNA COWAN

By EDNA COWAN

Well here we are past the middle of February and getting a little more snow, but it can't last too many weeks now.

We had a good week last week. There was logs going on but the flu is still going in here. Mrs. Marjorie Shuyler and Ruby Lewis both celebrated their birthdays on Tuesday the 11th. Ruby went out to celebrate with her family and Mrs. Shuyler had a dinner at her son's on Sunday for her birthday.

Wednesday evening Earl Cooper and the Scottish dancers came in and we sure enjoyed them. They are wonderful. Mrs. Wilson had two of her grandchildren over from the school to eat their lunch with her.

Friday evening we had our annual formal dinner. Each resident may ask two guests and Doris and Linda worked very hard decorating and setting up tables. And it's a lot of extra work for the kitchen staff. We thank all the staff for the extra time they put in.

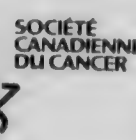

Everyone seemed to enjoy themselves very much and it's so nice for us residents to be able to return some of the hospitality shown us through the year.

Saturday and Sunday we had a movie in the lounge. I didn't see Saturday's, as Marilyn Congdon called and took me up to her Dad's for a couple of hours. David Stamp is home and doing very well I'm glad to tell you. Dave and Marilyn Congdon came Sunday morning and picked me up and we went in to Lochlin to church, had lunch with Marie and Russell Baker then came back.

Mrs. Lyle's grandson Derek Hewitt and friend called to see her Saturday. Lisa and Teresa Congdon called on me Sunday afternoon. I was so glad to see them as they work and live in Oshawa and I don't see them very often. Take care till next week.

Legume contest needs recipes

A legume recipe contest is being held by the Haliburton County Nutrition Month Committee to help promote national Nutrition Month in March. Prizes will be offered for the best recipes using legumes. Entries must be in by March 7 and the finalists will be chosen on March 18.

What are legumes? They are cooked dried beans or peas such as kidney beans, split peas, chick peas, white beans, lima beans, lentils, pinto beans, black beans and soy beans. They can be used in soups, salads, main courses or appetizers.

For the nutrition-conscious consumer, they are an excellent choice because they are low in fat, sugar and sodium but high in fibre, iron and protein. In addition, they are economical and tasty, too. Try them - and be creative. Then submit your favourite legume recipe to the contest (Hint: for bonus points, keep your recipes low in fat, sugar and salt. Time saving tips for preparing the legumes will also give you added points).

To enter, print or type your name, address and telephone number on an 8 1/2" by 11" piece of paper. Print or type your recipe submission using the following guidelines:

- Recipes must use at least one legume as an ingredient.
- Recipes must be for a soup, appetizer, salad or main course (both meatless or meat extender recipes are valid).
- Recipes can use either imperial or metric measure.
- Recipes must include number of servings, list of ingredients and method of preparation.
- Enter as often as you like, but each entry must be on a separate piece of paper.

All residents of Haliburton County are eligible. To be eligible, all entries must be post marked by March 7, 1986. Entries are to be sent to: P.O. Box 651, Haliburton, Ont. K0M 1S0.

Recipe entries will be screened by the Haliburton County Nutrition Month Committee. Finalists will then be selected. These finalists will be asked to bring their prepared recipes to an awards reception in March. Here the final judging will take place and the winners will receive their prizes. The decision of the judges will be final. Judging will take place on Wednesday, March 19 at the Haliburton County Home Support Services Drop-in Centre between 11 a.m. and noon.

First prize is a $25 gift certificate from the Highland Health Food store in Haliburton. Second prize is a $20 gift certificate from Easton's Valu-Mart, Haliburton and Minden. Third prize is a $15 gift certificate from Dollo's I.G.A. in Minden. Fourth prize is donated by the Storeroom in Minden.

To get you started, here is an example of a legume recipe.

Split Pea Vegetable Chowder

- 1 large potato
- 2 carrots
- 2 stalks celery
- 1/2 onion
- Cut above vegetables in small pieces. Place in large pot.
- Add to pot and cook for 35 minutes or until peas are tender:
- 8 cups boiling water
- 1 cup dry split peas
- 1 tbsp. fat
- 1 tbsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. pepper
- 1 cup chopped cabbage - add and cook 15 minutes more.
- 1 cup tomato juice or 1 1/2 cups canned tomatoes -
- 1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce - add tomatoes and sauce to soup, heat again and serve.
- Makes 10 servings. Preparation time: 20 minutes, cooking time: 1 hour.

Volunteers help with income tax

By SUZANNE HYOWAY

Once again, the Haliburton County Information Centre's trained and generously dedicated volunteers are eager to assist residents of the county in filing their Income Tax returns.

To help and expand the services of the Centre, these volunteers have recently attended an Income Tax Clinic where they have been made aware of the major changes and review of the 1985 guide.

Simply give our office a call at 457-2733 and we will set you up with one of our volunteers. If you have not yet received a special tax return in the mail, they can be obtained at any Post Office. Remember, your completed return must be in the mail by April 30.

Another added feature starting February 17 is that visually-impaired taxpayers can get a little extra help with filing this year's Income Tax return by getting the Audio-Guide, the general Income Tax guide on two track cassette.

Please keep in mind that we are here to help people of all ages with subjects involving social, health, governmental and environmental topics. Our office is open from 10 - 4, weekdays in the Drag River Building in Haliburton.

Out on a limb about where to get answers? Call your County Information Centre today. All inquiries are free and confidential.

Two boys go through ice

Coboconk news by Sheila Lake

A good number of people took advantage of the free horse drawn sleigh rides at Balsam Lake Provincial Park last Sunday. Hot chocolate and coffee were served after the rides.

Morris Angiers is in Ross Memorial Hospital. I hope your stay will be short, Morris.

We were sorry to hear of the accident overnight that claimed the life of one of Coboconk's finest, OPP officer Skidmore. The officer died when his car left the road on Highway 503 north-west of Kirkfield.

A tragedy that never happened, could have happened on Cameron Lake last week. The grandsons of Mac and Cass Henderson were each on snowmobiles crossing the lake when two machines went through the ice, throwing the drivers in the lake. The other brother saw them go through and turned his machine around and headed it back for shore. The boys managed to get out of the lake after much effort. One helped the two others get on his machine and all headed for land. The boys were badly shaken and cold but unharmed. Two machines are at the bottom of the lake. Be forewarned, snowmobile travellers!

Mrs. Flo Ward came home from hospital on Thursday. She has not been feeling well for some time and so spent some time in hospital to find out what could be done. I trust you are much better, Flo.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Rutter of Wilberforce were visitors of his mother and brother, Mrs. Ruth Rutter and Garnet, on Thursday.

To the Lewis family goes sympathy in the loss of a dear mother and wife.

I just learned that Lyda Mitchell had surgery a short time ago, but is home and doing quite well.

Mr. Zeke Munro, Mr. and Mrs. Atkin Archer and Mrs. Ada Irwin, all of Lindsay, were Monday evening supper visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Faulkner.

We were awakened at 5:15 a.m. last Saturday morning by the sharp barking of a fox just across the road on the hill to the quarry. Those "in the know" say this is mating season for foxes so it is not unusual to see or hear one in early February.

Several folks are under the weather including Elva Hannivan, Mary Wilkinson, Cora Lake and Mary Limrick. I hope you folks are much better now.

Logan Richman underwent surgery in Ross Memorial Hospital on Thursday. Logan has not been well for many years, suffering from cancer. Logan says that doctors at Princess Margaret Hospital in Toronto consider him a real miracle because they long ago told him he could not live much longer - he has now outlived their predictions by many years and I'm sure he'll bounce back from this latest problem.

Howard and Karen Hall of Scarborough were visitors of Sam and Millie Routley last week.

Congratulations to Mrs. Fanny Richman who celebrates her "over 80" birthday this week, and to Sam Routley, who hits the official "old age" figure this week.

Gordon Timleck managed to get home from hospital for the weekend. He has spent so much time in hospital so appreciates a few hours at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Louie Marles and family of Peterborough were Saturday visitors of Mrs. Annie Marles.

Bob Lake, of Stroud, stopped by for a visit at our house on Thursday night, on his way to another area.

CHACE sponsors films

By ERIC LILUIS

CHACE is sponsoring a series of films and discussions presented by Margaret Graham, Public Health Nurse. Last month, she presented the film "A Family Talks About Sex". This is a frank and open film about sexual situations that arise in a classical nuclear family. It follows the boy, girl and their parents from preschool to marriage. I wish more people had seen this film and I recommend it to anyone with children. These situations will come up.

On Wednesday, the 19th, Margaret will be presenting "First Foods", about appropriate infant feeding, and "Zoosters", a film for children, about useful health and food habits, set in a zoo.

Glenis Gater will share her tax expertise in two sessions on Income Tax. These will be of benefit to those doing daily child care and to those engaged in or contemplating a small business. The dates are Monday, February 24 and Thursday, March 6 at 1:30 p.m. at CHACE Place.

The latest news is the confirmation of funding for setting up a family resource centre and a private home day care service in Minden. The future of the day care centre originally proposed for the LEAD building in Minden is not clear at this time. At any rate, the staff is preparing to purchase the necessities for setting up in Minden. The private home day care visitor position will be filled very soon. And there will be new staff to be hired later on, for the resource centre.

pounds, 12 ounces. His name is Brandon Robert and his proud grandparents are Margaret and Bill Jeske, Gary Bowman and Grace and Danny Cashion.

First of the Tri-County hockey league play-offs took place on Friday at Bancroft with Wilberforce winning 4 to 2 over Maynooth.

On Sunday at the Wilberforce arena it was Maynooth 5, Wilberforce 2. There will be a game next Saturday at the Wilberforce arena with another game on Sunday at Bancroft.

The welcome mat is out for all mothers to bring their little ones to the weekly play school. Play school is held in the Lloyd Watson Centre every Wednesday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. This is a cooperative event where parents can participate in interesting, lively programs that might include puppet shows, crafts, etc. It's a wonderful opportunity for your child to meet and enjoy the friendship of other children.

Senior games are planned Community Centre gets $15,000

By BRUCE ARMSTRONG

George Burns, on his 90th birthday, is reported to have quipped that he doesn't buy green bananas! Well, with the Drop-in Centre facilities again available for both planning and implementation, the senior games committee is taking the more optimistic approach and organizing for our nine games, six provincial and three local. Kitchener-Waterloo, for their 'Actifest '86', have selected cribbage, darts, euchre, five-pin bowling, golf and shuffleboard as well as carpet bowling and snooker (which have drawn little interest locally) for the eight provincial final games. It may be of interest, though, to note why two of the most popular ones were omitted. Bridge - two strong factions emerged in committee where half advocated duplicate bridge and all its ramifications and half ordinary tournament bridge. Lawn bowling - There was simply a shortage of facilities with the local clubs fully booked.

Our community activities will start about May 26 and more information will follow. In the meantime the adherents of the three sedentary games may continue to practice each week; it's cribbage on Fridays, euchre on Wednesdays and bridge on Mondays, all at 1:15 p.m.

I hope many of this paper's readers saw the 12-foot Canadian flag that appeared almost overnight on the right field snowbank of the ball diamond on carnival weekend. It was Walter Webb who masterminded that project and then credited it to the Haliburton Seniors. Someone remarked that it was a nice touch as there is little enough patriotism shown in town on Canada's birthday.

West Guilford

by Eleanor Cooper

Congratulations to Bruce and Gail Medcalf on the birth of their first grandchild, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Medcalf of C.F.B. Cornwallis, N.S.

Eve Stata has done exceptionally well with her high bowling score of 673 for her Beagles team.

Sympathy goes to Wes Stata in the loss of his sister, Mrs. Bacon, of Lindsay.

We are pleased to note that the West Guilford Centre will receive $15,000 to help with its upkeep and worthy projects. John Eakins, our MPP, announced this as part of the Capital Conservation Program to benefit recreational facilities in Ontario.

The local World Day of Prayer service is being held at the Eagle Lake Community Church this year. The time is 2 p.m. on March 7. The theme is "Choose Life in its Fullness".

Scottish Country Dancers entertained at Hyland Crest last Wednesday evening and on Tuesday evening of this week entertained at Extensicare. The group is still under the very good instruction of Don Clarke and is even open to new members.

Church women to join in prayer

On March 7, church women in Haliburton will join with Christian women throughout the world to observe the 99th World Day of Prayer.

In hamlets and cathedrals, mountain, plain and fishing communities, the sound of women's voices will be raised in prayer and song, addressing concerns which are deeply felt by the global Christian sisterhood.

Written this year by the women of Australia, the topic for the service is "Choose Life in its Fullness". This is a time when the burning issue of peace with justice is confronted with problems such as famine and hunger, racism and torture, military aggression and terrorism. The service raises social and ethical questions about current issues such as genetic engineering, unemployment and poverty, child neglect and the boredom of affluence.

A short drama based on Biblical women focuses on the thought of choosing life in all its fullness as a continuing experience. The cover design for the service folder has been created by an Aboriginal school boy and portrays in symbolism the going forth of the disciples.

The World Day of Prayer is sponsored in Canada by the Women's Inter-Church Council of Canada (WICC) which represents eleven of the major denominations in Canada. WICC works in conjunction with the International World Day of Prayer Committee which is made up of representatives from 170 countries. Last year WICC distributed over 288,000 copies of the service to 3000 communities in Canada. The service was printed in English and French with special editions in large print, Japanese, Chinese and Braille.

The offerings from the services are applied to the cost of printing with the surplus being used to help carry on the work of WICC.

As well, last year, grants to the amount of $13,000 were applied to women's projects in the Third World and $7,000 to women's projects in Canada and the Canadian Bible Society.

The World Day of Prayer Service will be held in this area at Haliburton United Church at 7:30 p.m. on March 7.

Influenza bug hits Hyland Crest

Senior League

By EDNA COWAN

Dear readers: Well here it is Monday again and a week is gone in February. Time sure flies. We had Fun and Fitness Monday morning and crafts in the afternoon as usual. Those who were able to go to these sure enjoy them. We still have quite a few sick folks in here, with flu and colds that are hard to clear up.

Linda showed us two films in the auditorium after supper and they were really colourful and interesting. One was the "Canadians at Queen Elizabeth II Coronation, 1953", 33 years ago in June. It was really beautiful. The other was "Canadians Can Dance" with all the different folk dances that Canadians do. It depicted the different national dress of the dancers and how they can really move. It almost made us envious.

Mrs. Annie Cox had her daughter Buleau Cox and granddaughter Tina Gilbert in for lunch with her one day. Thursday was a big day for Mrs. Ellen Knight as it was her 101st birthday. Open house was held in the auditorium from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m. The Auxiliary served a lunch, tea, coffee and sandwiches and cookies and all kinds of goodies topped off by birthday cake. Mrs. Knight received a lot of cards, gifts and good wishes of all kinds.

Albert Foster and Steve Crowe came in and called and helped with Bingo. There was a good crowd out and everyone enjoyed it. We thank them very much.

There have been quite a few visitors in this last week or so in spite of flu. We had a good quiz on Tuesday. These are very interesting and we always learn a little something. You never know what the questions will be.

Angus Coulter is coming right along with his ceramics. He is making some very nice things indeed.

Doris showed us the movie "Pillow Talk" on the VCR in the lounge on Friday afternoon. Most everyone enjoyed it; it's an oldie but so are we.

I was home over the weekend so may have missed something but this is all I have for this week.

Be sure to watch for the icy patches; we have just enough snow now to hide them. Take care and see you next week.

THANK YOU

The family of Gladys Stamp would like to thank our relatives and friends for all their prayers and acts of kindness shown.

A special thanks to Dr. Walters and nursing staff of the 7th floor, Toronto General Hospital; Dr. Holliday-Rhodes and nursing staff of Minden Hospital; Gordon Monk Funeral Home for their kindness; Father George Elliot for his love and support; and the prayer chains in Minden and Haliburton for their constant prayers.

Sincerely, Dave Stamp and Family 27-B-19

Marion Scott and family would like to thank all our neighbours and friends for their kindness and help at the time of the loss of my husband. Thanks to the ladies of the bible study group and the ladies of Auxiliary 441 who assisted in serving lunch. Thanks also to Dr. Hartwick for his very thorough and kind attention given to my husband during his illness. Thanks to Gordon A. Monk for his kind consideration during our bereavement of January 13th, 1986.

27-P-19

The family of the late Nora Parish, wish to express our sincere appreciation to relatives, neighbours and friends for calls, prayers, floral tributes, cards and memorial donations; also, to the ambulance drivers, Dr. Stokes and staff of Haliburton hospital.

Special thanks to Dr. Hartwick, staff and volunteers of Extensivecare of Haliburton. To the staff members who met mother at the door each Sunday night with welcome words; and the volunteers who drove to Locarno and Locarno Resort.

Thanks to Monk Funeral Home, Gord, Donna and Kirsten who so capably filled her dad's shoes for their kindness and consideration.

Many thanks to Rev. John James for his consoling words and comforting meditation, and to the United Church Women for their hospitality and delicious lunch.

Ladies win zone tourney Seniors enjoy Tuesday lunches

Legion News

By GERALD IRISH

It's that time of year again when Zone and District hold meetings and seminars. On Sunday, February 9, nine members of Branch 129 attended a District seminar on leadership in Lindsay. Last Sunday, seven members attended the Zone Council Meeting in Fenelon Falls. The Zone Convention will be held in Beaverton on March 2 and the District Convention in Peterborough in April. It sure looks like a busy time.

Congratulations to Gwen Cox, Doris McColl, Faye McKay and Ruby Mighon. On Saturday, February 8 these ladies travelled to Kinmount, participated in the L.A. Zone Dart Tournament, and came home as Zone Champions. With this victory comes the honour of hosting the Zone Dart Tournament at our own branch next year.

While we are on the topic of darts, we may have lost the International Dart Tournament to England (five games for us) but everyone who attended this event had a fantastic time. Congratulations to all our players, Bernie Bain, Jack Briggs, Pat Wilson, Jack Morrison and Reg Crockett with special mention to our two winners Chris Briggs and Les Smith. Thanks must also go to Reg and Olive Crockett for organizing this annual event.

For those of you who missed the Yorkshire Lad when he was here, don't worry. He has been booked at your Legion for a return engagement on Saturday, September 13. This is the earliest date we could book this very popular entertainer.

Tickets are now on sale for the Mac Wiseman concert on March 22 at the Legion Hall. Mac will be joined by the popular group from the Tommy Hunter Show, Whiskey Jack. Advance tickets are $7 - at the door $8. Get your tickets soon as we have a limited number available and already have sold many of them.

Mac Wiseman's concert is by way of an introduction to the Legion-sponsored Bluegrass Festival to be held here on August 8, 9 and 10. All the chairmen for Bluegrass committees have been selected. Now we need you. Please volunteer to help us. This could be the event to finally put Haliburton on the map. Here is the line-up of artists appearing at our Bluegrass Festival. The Boys from Indiana, Family Pride, Ralph Carlson and Bytown Bluegrass, Blue Mule, McDonald Bluegrass, White Water Bluegrass and Beaver River Bluegrass. The shows on Friday, Saturday and Sunday will be emceed by Bob Wood and Jim Higgins, two of the finest Bluegrass M.C.'s.

We are now in the process of preparing ads and information fliers for the Bluegrass Festival. If you want these, call Jim at the Legion (457-2571) and he'll put you on our mailing list.

Carnarvon

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Bannon and daughter Sandra of Hamilton were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Thomas.

We extend sympathies to Fred Chapple of Four Seasons store whose mother died on the weekend in Toronto. Funeral services were held on Monday.

Best wishes to Elsie Bursey who has been a patient in the Minden hospital.

Happy February 14 birthday to Mrs. Alice Voicy. Her family from Toronto and Lindsay were there on the weekend to help her celebrate.

The seniors of our area are having their every other Tuesday luncheons at Glen Roy Lodge and Restaurant on Hall's Lake and are enjoying very good food and warm hospitality. To those many salesmen, work people and travellers we see pull into the eating places in the village which are closed it's worth the few miles further up the road for really good food.

I'm pleased to report that Mrs. Bob Cowan is feeling much better and will be going back to Lindsay on Thursday for further tests. Grace and Bob are very appreciative of their friends and neighbours' kindnesses.

A memorial service for Gordon Allcorn will be held in the Carnarvon Church on March 8.

I hear the Ministry of Tourism wants to spend one million dollars on ways to make Canada more attractive to Americans. It's not our country they object to, it's our prices. Friends in Florida are paying twenty-six cents a litre to our fifty plus for gas and liquor or beer is more than three times the price. Maybe our companies should forget free dishes and chicken dinner vouchers at the pumps and sell their products at a reasonable price. Mr. and Mrs. Rick Lowes and friends of Toronto spent the weekend at her father's cottage on Hall's Lake.

I just had word that Mrs. Sadie Darling of Toronto, mother of Mrs. Bill McKay, has suffered a stroke while in hospital recovering from a heart attack.
